Missile Dynamics Equations for Guidance and Control Modeling and Analysis Philip N. Jenkins, 1976 This report documents some techniques used in deriving the equations of motion of a missile for a six-degree-of-freedom (6-DOF) simulation. Several forms of the equations are developed, and their implementation is discussed. Specific emphasis is placed on showing the interrelation of the equation forms currently in use by showing their development from the basic laws. This report is meant to serve as a primer for new engineers and as a reference for all engineers involved in missile flight simulation.

Ballistic Missile Defense John H. Pendleton, 2008-12 In 2002, the DoD established the Missile Defense Agency (MDA) to develop and deploy globally integrated ballistic missile defenses to protect the U.S. homeland, deployed forces, friends, and allies. To deliver an operational capability as quickly as possible, the agency was not subject to traditional DoD requirements and oversight processes. While directed to work closely with the combatant commands, the agency was not required to build missile defenses to meet specific operational requirements. This report assesses the extent to which DoD has developed a process that identifies, prioritizes, and addresses overall combatant command priorities as the MDA develops ballistic missile defense capabilities. Includes recommend. Illus.

An Innovative Approach to Missile System Design, 1998 This paper will address several system effectiveness tools developed by the U.S. Army Missile Command's Missile Research, Development, and Engineering Center (MRDEC). MRDEC has expanded upon the traditional lethality modeling tools and methodologies and incorporated novel ideas utilizing visualization and design level engineering assumptions. Effectiveness and lethality were not traditionally included in the early stages of missile system development, but were calculated based on the results of individual component performance. Detailed system effectiveness studies were an after-thought, with a lack of feedback in the missile development cycle. In recent years the MRDEC has worked with PEO Tactical Missiles Project Offices and contractors in refining a process to fully explore a design level approach to missile system development. This paper will discuss mini-map technologies, connectivity of flight simulation performance and warhead performance for missile and/or component development, and new visualization tools to assist the analyst in the accessing and analyzing the computed data. MRDEC is demonstrating that the utilization of design level effectiveness studies is critical in the development of missile system requirements, design, and evaluation. By increasing design level lethality inputs in the development cycle, the overall process can.

A Low-Visibility Force Multiplier National Defense University, 2019-01-10 One area of relative analytical neglect involves China's extensive efforts to develop and deploy large numbers of highly accurate anti-ship cruise missiles (ASCMs) and land-attack cruise missiles (LACMs) on a range of ground, naval, and air platforms. Although a few articles have examined Chinese cruise missile capabilities and development programs, there has been no comprehensive study on the subject. This book addresses the historical origins of the Chinese cruise missile program, considers progress made in developing and deploying ASCMs and LACMs, and reviews Chinese doctrinal writings to consider how these weapons might be employed in a conflict. Why buy a book you can download for free? We print this book so you don't have to. First you gotta find a good clean (legible) copy and make sure it's the latest version (not always easy). Some documents found on the web are missing some pages or the image quality is so poor, they are difficult to read. We look over each document carefully and replace poor quality images by going back to the original source document. We proof each document to make sure it's all there - including all changes. If you find a good copy, you could print it using a network printer you share with 100 other people (typically its either out of paper or toner). If it's just a 10-page document, no problem, but if it's 250-pages, you will need to punch 3 holes in all those pages and put it in a 3-ring binder. Takes at least an hour. It's much more cost-effective to just order the latest version from Amazon.com This book includes original commentary which is copyright material. Lame Deer, Seeker of Visions Lame Deer,Richard Erdoes,1994-10 Lame Deer

Storyteller, rebel, medicine man, Lame Deer was born almost a century ago on the Rosebud Reservation in South Dakota. A full-blooded Sioux, he was many things in the white man's world -- rodeo clown, painter, prisoner. But, above all, he was a holy man of the Lakota tribe. Seeker of Vision The story he tells is one of harsh youth and reckless manhood, shotgun marriage and divorce, history and folklore as rich today as ever -- and of his fierce struggle to keep pride alive, though living as a stranger in his own ancestral land.
