Airbus A340 and A330 Guy Norris, Mark Wagner, 2001 For maximum efficiency, the innovative Airbus consortium developed its large-capacity A340 and A330 jetliners concurrently, utilizing the same wings, airframe and cockpit. This comprehensive, illustrated history of the two jetliners and their intertwined development encompasses the birth of the projects, design and certification, construction and anatomy, and operational histories. All variants of each are covered, and exclusive color photography depicts the aircraft in production, cockpits and interiors, and in-flight images around the globe showing a rich variety of liveries.

Airbus Guy Norris Mark Wagner, By welding the European aerospace industry into a cohesive force and directing the pace of technological change in civil air transport, Airbus Industrie has successfully challenged the competition and now ranks as one of the world's largest commercial jetliner manufacturers. Airbus traces the history of Airbus Industrie's rise to greatness, describing the consortium's head-to-head match with Boeing, and how it is revolutionizing the airliner industry. Each Airbus model is covered in detail.

Airbus A340 Philip Birtles, 2000

Airbus A330 & A340 Robert Hewson, 2003 Both the A340 and the A330 are loosely based upon the design of the A300. Both aircraft are built to a common design with wings swept to 30 and with 9 ft (2.74 m) winglets, the difference being that the A330 is powered by two engines and the A340 by four.

Air Crash Investigation: The Crash of Air France Flight 358 Hans Griffioen, 2009-07-09 On August 2, 2005 Air France Flight 358, an Airbus A340, departed Paris, on a flight to Toronto, Canada, with 297 passengers and 12 crew members on board. On final approach, the aircraft's weather radar was displaying heavy precipitation encroaching on the runway from the northwest. The aircraft touched down 3800 feet down the runway, and was not able to stop before the end of it. The aircraft stopped in a ravine and caught fire. All passengers and crew members were able to evacuate the aircraft on time. Only 2 crew members and 10 passengers were seriously injured during the crash and the evacuation.

Report on the Accident to Airbus A340-3111, G-Vsky, at London Heathrow Airport on 5 November 1997 Great Britain. Air Accidents Investigation Branch, Transport and the Regions Environment Staff, 2000-01-01 The accident was notified to the Air Accidents Investigation Branch (AAIB) at 1630 hrs on 5 November 1997 by Airfield Operations at Heathrow Airport and the investigation began immediately. The investigation was conducted by Dr E.J. Trimble (Investigator-in-Charge), Mr P.D. Gilmartin (Operations), Mr A.P. Simmons (Engineering) and Ms A. Evans (Flight Recorders). The accident occurred when the aircraft, which had a landing gear problem on its first approach to Heathrow Airport, carried out an emergency landing on Runway 27L with the left main landing gear only partially extended. The flight crew responded to the in-flight emergency with commendable judgment and conducted a skilful landing, with the Airport Emergency Services in full and effective attendance. The evacuation was completed with minor injuries to 5 passengers and 2 crew members. Examination of the left main landing gear found that the gear had been jammed by the No 6 wheel brake torque rod which had disconnected from its brake pack assembly and had become trapped in the keel beam structure. The associated torque rod pin was subsequently found beyond the end of Runway 24L at Los Angeles Airport, the departure airport ... Six safety recommendations have been made as a result of this investigation--Synopsis (p. 1-2).
