Report on the A.& M. College Apiary Fred; W. Mally,2015-08-04 Excerpt from Report on the A.& M. College Apiary: Together With Practical Suggestions in Modern Methods of Bee Keeping as Applied to Texas Conditions Dear Sir: Herewith I beg to submit a report upon the work accomplished with the Apiary at the College the past six months, since the establishment of the same this season. The year thus far has been a most unfavorable one for surplus honey production and the colonies have been brought in and established and bred up to a strong working force under the greatest difficulties. Mr. Wilmon Newell was selected as Assistant Entomologist in February and was given the immediate charge of the Apiary and its care and development preparatory to experimental work. Much preliminary work has been done under my direction and the basis for much valuable work in the future prepared. Some important suggestions have already developed from the work upon honey plants and the studies made concerning them the past season. Then, too, it has been found that there is a pressing demand for some kind of ready reference and guide for the farmers, truck growers, and fruit growers, who have a few colonies, but who are not familiar with up-to-date methods. For all of these reasons I have asked Mr. Newell to prepare a complete report covering many of the serious difficulties encountered. This will be of great value to the rural bee keepers of the State. His report has been prepared with great care, and I take pleasure in submitting the same herewith and recommending it for publication as a portion of my annual report. Dear Sir: In compliance with your instructions, I beg to submit herewith a report upon the Experimental Apiary, located at the Agricultural and Mechanical College, which was created by act of the Twenty-seventh Legislature. The Bee-Keeper's Guide Albert John Cook,2015-08-05 Excerpt from The Bee-Keeper's Guide: Or Manual of the Apiary In 1876, in response to a desire frequently expressed by my apiarian friends, principally my students, I published an edition of 3000 copies of the little, unpretending Manual of the Apiary. This was little more than the course of lectures which I gave annually at the Michigan Agricultural College. In less than two years this was exhausted, and the second edition, enlarged, revised, and much more fully illustrated, was issued. So great was the sale that in less than a year this was followed by the third and fourth editions, and, in less than two years, the fifth edition (seventh thousand) was issued. In each of the two following years, another edition was demanded. In each of these editions the book has been enlarged, changes made, and illustrations added, that the book might keep pace with our rapidly advancing art. So great has been the demand for this work, not only at home and in Europe, but even in more distant lands, and so great has been the progress of spiculture - so changed the views and methods of our best beekeepers - that the author feels warranted in thoroughly revising and entirely recasting this eighth edition (tenth thousand). Not only is the work re-written, but much new matter, and many new and costly illustrations, are added. The above I quote directly from the preface of the eighth edition, published in 1883. Since then four editions have appeared, each revised as the progress of the art required. In electrotyping the eighth edition, through an accident very poor work was done, so that the impressions of the last three editions have been far from satisfactory. This has led me wholly to revise the present, or thirteenth edition. In doing this I have thought it wise to add largely, especially to the scientific portion, as the intelligence of our bee-keepers demands the fullest information. I have thus added one hundred and fifty pages and more than thirty illustrations. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
