Offering the world an insight to fashion, as well as, human equality and world issues, Benetton gives us stylish clothing and innovative promotion. While trying to capture an audience favoring Italian character in style and design, the company additionally desires to present the world with contentious campaigns to awaken thoughts and debates. These controversies are jeopardizing Benetton's position in the industry, and its reputation of being trendily unique and committing to world harmony. The United Colors of Benetton (Benetton), an Italian based company, is primarily focusing its business on clothing and controversial advertising. Presented all over the world, the company is available to young and old in combined colors and stylish fashion. In the following pages a complete internal and external analysis of the company will be explained, as well as, a description of the company's overall standing. International Strategic Leadership Olga Sokolowski, 2011-03 Seminar paper from the year 2010 in the subject Business economics - Business Management, Corporate Governance, grade: 1,7, University of Applied Sciences Emden/Leer, language: English, abstract: In times of globalisation, engineering progress and extremely aggressive competition as well as continuous growth of dynamic and complexity within business, strategic changes are crucial for organizational surviving. Consequently, organisations have to be permanently harmonized with their environments to react to external developments effectively and to form the business proactively so they are operated in timely.¹ As an excellent example for global expansion by successful management of strategy changes, the Benetton Group is classified. Benetton is an Italian producer of high quality design clothing, which is active since the early 1960s. The company started as a family business and until today, the family of Benetton has the control over the firm. The company is not only famous for its high quality and sophisticated design, as it is known for its advertisement campaigns against racism, discrimination and ine-quality. In the 1980s, the Italian photographer Oliviero Toscani started to work for the Benetton Group as the designer for the marketing campaigns. Within several years, the advertisements of Benetton were not only about cloths, as the fight against racism and discrimination became almost more important than the clothing itself. The company did even change its name in order to express their fight against inequality in the world, into United Colors of Benetton.² Major aim of this report is to clarify the essential importance of strategic change management on the basis the successful story of Benetton Group. The report contains several chapters that highlight the strategic changes of the company in the past and in the future, which gives information about the Benetton Group and shows the strengths and weaknesses of the company in comparison to the market. Thereby, c

Benetton Jonathan Mantle, 2000 Benetton is the story of an extraordinary family and the business they have built from humble origins to a skilfully orchestrated worldwide phenomenon. No other team name has such an ability to charm and shock, to subvert and yet preach conformism, to blend radicalism with capitalism, as Benetton. Behind the united colors and the seamless brand, there are also darker shades and looser threads. These include marginalized members of the family, aggrieved franchise holders, and banks. This is a success story from the frontline of the retail company, where soft fabrics mix with the smell of high-octane petrol and Grand Prix motor racing, and colored condoms combine with Catholicism and capitalism in their most red-blooded forms.

Edizione Andrea Colli, 2017-08-17 A corporate history of the innovative Benetton Holding Company, Edizione follows the early days of the family-owned brand, through governance and structure changes, mass distribution, infrastructure and network growth, to wider views for the future. In the late 1980s, as a world-class, multi-national and family-run business, the Benetton brand was considered a symbol of Italian entrepreneurial creativity. While at the height of its success, the Benetton family set in motion a process of diversifying its core business, developing its interests in large-scale distribution, infrastructure and the real estate sector. This strategy was made possible by the creation of an independent family-management system: Edizione Srl, today one of Europe's major holding companies. Edizione Srl has investments in many sectors, ranging from motorway and airport catering, infrastructure and mobility, to real estate and agricultural services. United Colors Lorella Pagnucco Salvemini, 2002 The Benetton campaigns by Oliviero Toscani have been one of the most important and controversial phenomena in worldwide advertising. This text explores the history of the campaigns from 1984 to 2000.

Architecture for Benetton Marco Mulazzani, Massimo Vignelli, 2005 Because United Colors of Benetton's core business is clothing, the contemporary culture of design plays an important role in the group's activity, including its corporate architecture. Benetton's international brand style—combining color, energy, and practicality—can be seen first in its buildings. In 1964, long before it was fashionable for designers to employ brand-name architects, Luciano Benetton chose two very young and ambitious architects, Afra and Tobia Scarpa, to design his first textile factory. This project marked the beginning of a vision of architecture aimed at enhancing the workplace: an architecture where image and substance come together. This unique book, brilliantly designed by Massimo Vignelli, brings together all of the Benetton buildings, including plans, 500 color illustrations, superb photographs by Antonia Mulas, an interview with Luciano Benetton, and a chapter dedicated to Tadao Ando's Fabbrica building. This book is designed and published in collaboration with Fabbrica, Benetton's corporate communications research center designed by Japanese architect Tadao Ando. Tadao Ando states the true spirit of the Benetton style when describing his work on the Fabbrica project: "The role of the new architecture is to bring out the charm and strength of the ancient villa and to give birth to a reciprocal, cathartic relationship between old and new in an in an atmosphere of complete harmony, transcending the limits of a specific period.

What Happened to United Colors of Benetton? Raffaele Filieri, 2022 This case study analyzes the rise and fall of one of the most popular clothing brands in the world, the United Colors of Benetton. The case study reviews the story of the brand and the main events that have impacted its performance since its foundation to the present. The case study also analyzes fast-fashion companies and the reaction to the competition by Benetton, which produced a change in market orientation from being market-driving to market-driven. The Benetton Group proactively led change in the fashion retailing industry from the 1970s until approximately 2000, due to a unique brand image conferred by an innovative advertising strategy. The competition from fast-fashion companies and new online retailers and the COVID-19 pandemic have crushed the Benetton brand, forcing several shops to close. The company is kept alive by the financial resources injected by the Benetton family. Students will be asked to apply marketing strategy theory to evaluate the significance of different strategic orientations (i.e., market-driving and market-driven) on company performance over time, and specifically in the evolution of the Benetton Group.

Benetton Francesco della Barba, 2023-12-18 The Benetton story is a fascinating insight into a world of glamour, money and excess. Francesco della Barba was born in 1950 in Treviso, Italy, and graduated in Economics at the University of Venice. He soon rose within the fashion industry, joining the Benetton Group in 1980. As the Executive Vice-President of Benetton USA, he drove a huge increase in the number of Benetton stores in the USA from 25 to 750 in the first three years. He later helped the company to grow its business in the Middle East, where he lived for sixteen years. A great deal has already been written about the incredible growth of Benetton, the Italian fashion giant, that shocked the world with its success in both fashion retail and Formula One motor racing. This is the story of one of the key players, a Benetton insider, who tells behind-the-scenes stories which have never previously been aired.

Benetton Formula 1 Pino Allievi,2006 Benetton's story is a rather anomalous one. It arises from the dream of an industrialist--who has never made cars but instead pullovers--to race his cars in the Formula 1. It was a dream that became a reality in an extraordinarily effective manner. It was a phenomenon, a unique and probably unrepeatable event that overturned the parameters of the world of Grand Prix.Today, Luciano Benetton can look back with pride and mull over how good his team was during those 19 years on the track, first as sponsor and then as constructor. He can remember the figures who took part in the adventure and recall the major events in each season and the numerous drivers, the best being Michael Schumacher, who was unknown when first hired. Benetton as an adventurer in a field not his own and Formula 1 as the backdrop to a thousand episodes that cannot be overlooked--this is the basis for the story that unfolds for the protagonists of this book, which covers a busy, in some ways raging, epoch. Men can now allow themselves the luxury of telling the story, sometimes even contradicting each other, of what happened between 1983 and 2001, with their own behind-the-scenes anecdotes, technical details, secrets and emotions.

The Benetton advertising campaigns: Intentions, receptions and the legitimacy of raising global issues in advertising ,2003-09-23 Seminar paper from the year 2003 in the subject Communications - Public Relations, Advertising, Marketing, Social Media, grade: B-68, University of Canterbury (Department of Mass Communication and Journalism), course: COMS 406 Advertising and Society, 17 entries in the bibliography, language: English, abstract: Advertising has become the single largest source of visual imagery in our society today. No matter where we look, we see advertisements trying to sell us things. We see images of youthful, beautiful people enticing us to spend our money on products we think we need, hoping that by purchasing the product we too may reap the benefits of owning it. At the beginning of the 1990s however, the Italian clothing company Benetton changed the face of advertising forever. Instead of showing the company's products in its advertisements, they have chosen to show images related to important world issues in a claimed attempt to raise awareness (http://www.courses.psu.edu/art/art122w_jlh18/student/knepper/Intro.htm). Between 1990 and 1994, and then again in 2000, Benetton attracted attention because of its especially provocative advertising campaigns. Diverse pictures of these campaigns showed situations of adversity, distress, suffering and death. Oliviero Toscani, the creator of the advertisements asserts that it is not his function to increase sales of Benetton products. Toscani claims he uses advertising to raise awareness concerning the issues addressed and his intention is "to promote peace, tolerance, multiculturalism and to challenge stereotypes" (http://www.xs4all.nl/~conflic1/pbp/7/5_benett.htm). However, despite claims by Luciano Benetton and Toscani that profit was never a motive and raising social conscience was their single goal, Benetton advertisements have been widely criticised and banned worldwide (http://www.courses.psu.edu/art/art122w_jlh18/student/knepper/Benetton.htm). This might have resulted anyhow, not only from their approach of attempting to raise awareness of real problems, but from the means with which they did it. Everything that diverges from well known, generally accepted norms appears provocative for the recipient who is used to certain standards. Nevertheless, the different interpretation of its advertising images in diverse cultures caused resistance and problems for the Benetton company. Contrary to other international operating conglomerates that use the same advertising internationally but modify it in consideration of the cultural context, Benetton advertisements are not tailored regionally. The company uses the same images and campaigns worldwide (<http://www.karlsruhe.de/Schulen/Ludwig-Erhard-Schule/Projwer/wer4.htm>), and does not consider cultural and moral conceptual differences. Internationale Kommunikationspolitik - Fallstudie Benetton: "Raising consciousness and controversy with global advertising" Anke Marion Kondermann,Isabel Eitelmann,2006-10-27 Studienarbeit aus dem Jahr 2005 im Fachbereich BWL - Marketing, Unternehmenskommunikation, CRM, Marktforschung, Social Media, Note: 1,7, Eberhard-Karls-Universität Tübingen, 29 Quellen im Literaturverzeichnis, Sprache: Deutsch, Abstract: Abstract Im Zuge zunehmender Globalisierung ist eine international ausgerichtete Kommunikationspolitik notwendige Bedingung für die Wettbewerbsfähigkeit eines Unternehmens. Der italienische Modekonzern Benetton hat eine Werbestrategie entwickelt, die in allen Medien kontrovers diskutiert wird und nicht ohne Folgen für den wirtschaftlichen Erfolg des Unternehmens bleibt. Durch die visuelle Reizüberflutung in der Gesellschaft kann eine solche Kampagne die Aufmerksamkeit auf ein Produkt oder eine Marke lenken: „Wenn mich die Leute fragen, was denn der Krieg in Ex-Jugoslawien, Aids oder aktuelles Zeitgeschehen mit Pullovern zu tun haben, antworte ich, sie hätten gar nichts miteinander zu tun. Ich mache Werbung. Ich verkaufe nicht.“ (Oliviero Toscani, Creative Designer bei Benetton von 1982 bis 2000) Die Autorinnen diskutieren im Rahmen dieser internationalen Fallstudie Rahmenbedingungen des internationalen Marketing und leiten Handlungsalternativen ab. Im Rahmen einer Umfrage werden Meinungen eingeholt und ausgewertet. Es findet eine kritische Auseinandersetzung mit den Kampagnen im internationalen Umfeld sowie mit den rechtlichen Konsequenzen in Deutschland statt.
