Big Boss MVP,2011

Big Bossman Peter Ullian,2014-06-30 Brothers Ray and Billy desperately need their new job with the local crime boss. They've got a drunken, aging father and an overworked sister. This is their shot for something better for their family. But then Billy impulsively brings home a Russian prostitute. And the Big Bossman comes looking for her. A cross between David Mamet and the Marx Brothers ... Ullian's comedy flirts with all kinds of allegorical possibilities ... a suitably flaky style, an oddball naturalism that plays against the absurdities in the dialogue ... bland spoofery, improbable dialogue laced with specific detail and monologues like verbal jazz riffs ... Ullian has a distinctive voice. -Marianne Evett, The Cleveland Plain Dealer About the plays of Peter Ullian: Singularly satisfying, winning, heart rending, punchy, button-pushing, irresistible. The sense of new blood entering the mainstream achieves the palpably energizing force of a transfusion. -New York Times Quirky, crackling prose. -The Village Voice Without apology. Taut, absorbing. Great style and crisp wit. -Variety Courageous, intensely empathetic characters ... very poignant ... and truthful. -The Chicago Tribune

Big Boss Man Will Romano, 2006 Alcoholic. Epileptic. Technically challenged. Described as all this and worse, Jimmy Reed nevertheless overcame these roadblocks to become perhaps the most successful R&B/pop crossover artist of the '50s. In Big Boss Man, musicians, family members, and those whose lives Reed touched offer revealing and heart-wrenching insights into this now-revered bluesman. Although Reed's alcoholism was no secret, its effect on his musicianship is less understood -- this and more is explored in this comprehensive biography of a classic bluesman.

The Big Boss Penny Wylder, 2020-08 I hate rich men. I avoid them like the plague. But when my best friend begs me to deliver flowers from her small shop to the desk of a mega-CEO because she's too sick to do it herself... I agree. I wish I hadn't. The second I meet Keenan Silverman, my heart and mind are at war. He's gorgeous, he radiates an intimidating aura, and his voice is pure silk to my ears. He's also the epitome of everything I hate. HATE. Did I say hate? He's clearly obsessed with me; he keeps finding ways to force us together in the same room. Keenan believes he can break me down by exposing me to our undeniable chemistry. He's right. And when we finally kiss, I realize I'm as obsessed as he is. Will everything fall apart when our different worlds clash?

Big Bosses Althea McDowell Altemus, 2016-11-22

“Dishy, witty and a ton of fun . . . [a] document of everyday life and work in 20th century America from a perspective that is all too rarely seen” (Chicago Tribune). In her memoir, Big Bosses, Althea Altemus vividly recounts her life as a secretary for prominent—but thinly disguised—employers in Chicago, Miami, and New York during the late teens and 1920s. Alongside her, we rub elbows with movie stars, artists, and high-profile businessmen, and experience lavish estate parties that routinely defied the laws of Prohibition. Beginning with her employment as a private secretary to James Deering of International Harvester, whom she describes as “probably the world’s oldest and wealthiest bachelor playboy,” Altemus tells us much about high society during the time, taking us inside Deering’s glamorous Miami estate, Vizcaya, an Italianate mansion worthy of Gatsby himself. Later, we meet her other notable employers, including Samuel Insull, president of Chicago Edison; New York banker S. W. Straus; and real estate developer Fred F. French. Altemus was also a struggling single mother, a fact she had to keep secret from her employers, and she reveals the difficulties of being a working woman at the time through glimpses into women’s apartments, their friendships, and the dangers—sexual and otherwise—that she and others faced. Throughout, Altemus entertains with a tart and self-aware voice that combines the knowledge of an insider with the wit and clarity of someone on the fringe. “Big Bosses stands as a real contribution to our understanding of the history of working women in Jazz Age America.” —The Wall Street Journal “Remarkable . . . Altemus recounts the wildest indiscretions of her employers between 1918 and 1925.” —Booklist

The big boss 2002

The Big Boss Oludare (Dare) Adebisi, 2019-12 Positions of Leadership and Management are very desirable to so many people, for one major reason - they get to 'call the shots as the 'Big Boss', and decide the 'fate' of (what happens to) other people. Being the Leader or Manager also means nobody else gets to call unwelcome shots over you or decide your fate. Positions of leadership confer such great power and authority on the Leader that practically makes them seem to be 'above the law'; simply because 'they may choose to make themselves the law'. Most Leaders like to only make laws that will favor them before anyone else; and that is even if it will ever favor anyone else outside themselves, their group/sphere of influence or family, friends, gangs, cult or class. There are even many others who are so interested in being in leadership for the sole purpose of enriching themselves through bribes/kickbacks, embezzlement of funds entrusted in their care and coercing/forcing gifts out of the people they are supposed to be leading or taking care of. Some seek to be in leadership in order to simply be above any law, and so avoid accountability or any form of punishment that may result from their intended atrocities (wrong-doings). Many people do not agree that leadership is meant to be a service to others - to defend those that cannot defend themselves, provide for those that cannot provide for themselves, direct those who are unsure of the right way to go, or to give encouragement, healing, and hope to the down-trodden (those beaten down by the challenges of life). Many people will lie, cheat, steal, bribe, maim, kill, and destroy anything or anyone on their way to getting into positions of leadership, because they tell themselves that 'the end justifies the means', i.e. they really do not care what they do on their way of getting to their leadership goal. Many will even sell themselves, their principles, honor, faith, body, family, spouse, children or soul in order to attain some high levels of leadership, success, fame, or wealth etc. Some other's seek positions of leadership for a sense of belonging among some very select few 'at the top'. The top is made to look so glamorous that some will do the unthinkable in order to 'belong'. And when they finally 'belong' in such leadership circles, but then find out some terrible things that those in their 'select group' have done or continue to do, they simply 'turn the other eye' and tell themselves that 'everyone is doing it or will do the same when they get to those heights'. The question for each of us to ask ourselves and personally honestly answer is, 'why do I seek positions of leadership, management, success, fame, wealth, or governance? Do I intend to use it to oppress others, dominate others, help others, make other's feel great about themselves or feel less than a human being; make others believe in themselves or make them feel like failures and nobody's in life?' There is a much accomplished world leader that I also personally met some time ago as he alighted from his private jet at one of the Regional Airports that only catered to those with private jets in the States. There were about thirty (30) people there to welcome him at the foot of the jet, even though he knew and only expected five (5) people, and none of the rest of the twenty five (25). Yet, when he alighted from the jet, he didn't just greet the five people he knew and expected to only see, but he took the time to personally greet and shake hands with everyone there. In spite of being an extremely successful person, he is yet one of the most humble persons on the face of the earth. Yet, there are so many people under him in his organization who have not attained 1/1000th of his level of success, but who are profoundly rude/proud and snobbish at other people they consider themselves more successful than. His name is E.A. Adeboye (1942 -), fondly called Daddy G.O. (General Overseer) by many. What will you do in your position as a Leader?
