Extrait : Simon Bombard la trouvait souvent mauvaise, la vie ! Il était né avec une incroyable aptitude pour ne rien faire et avec un désir immodéré de ne point contrarier cette vocation. Tout effort moral ou physique, tout mouvement accompli pour une besogne lui paraissait au-dessus de ses forces. Aussitôt qu'il entendait parler d'une affaire sérieuse il devenait distrait, son esprit étant capable d'une tension ou même d'une attention. À PROPOS DES ÉDITIONS

Bombard,2020-12-13 A debut poetry chapbook

TobaccoNet K. E. Bombard,2015-07-13 Jason Kraft, an agent in the DEA's covert operations group has just been assigned to infiltrate a large tobacco farm in New England. This farm is thought to be responsible for a special hybrid of genetically engineered tobacco, known to look and smell like normal tobacco, but it has the chemical component THC, having a similar effect to potent marijuana when smoked. It is critical that Jason finds the strain and destroys it before it hits the streets. This assignment takes him into the complex world of Connecticut shade tobacco cultivation, to infiltrate the largest farm in the region where expensive cigar wrapper leaves are grown. The FBI is also interested; they unknowingly assign Jason's former lover Alondra, to work the investigation with him. Their relationship is rekindled as they reunite for this common goal, to find the strain. Alondra, of Puerto Rican decent, develops her own agenda: to fight for equality of pay and better working conditions for the large contingent of Puerto Rican workers on the farm. She works to bring labor unions in for the first time to help establish more wages, benefits, and a better life for the seasonal Puerto Rican farm workers, who for years have struggled and have been left behind. They are both nearing their goals, but there's a dilemma: if they find the strain, the case ends and Alondra will lose the opportunity to establish unions and labor equality for the first time in the Connecticut tobacco industry. Read this book to follow Jason's and Alondra's quest to find the strain, and to learn all about how shade tobacco is grown and how children and migrant workers have sacrificed for years to make Connecticut farmers wealthy. The plot is contrived and the characters are fictional, but the descriptions of tobacco operations, activities in the fields, depictions of migrant farm labor and the plight of the workers in the Connecticut shade tobacco industry are 100 percent real.

Bombarded Cyrus Krohn, Tom Farmer, 2020-10-10

Imagine an imminent America where citizens are bombarded with personalized political messages from every smart device – yet information is so suspect, nobody can tell what the truth is. It means oceans of disinformation engineered to sow false beliefs or simply disorient. The coronavirus pandemic provided a foretaste of an infuriating, dystopian future. From the start Americans fought over the most basic facts of the crisis, from death tolls to quack cures to the wisdom of stay-at-home orders. The splintered digital infosphere bred confusion and delusion, some of it fatal. Now think of our campaigns and elections. The digital information age means more than hyper-targeted, just-for-you messages from insurance companies and presidential candidates alike. Big Data is on the way to fueling information environments so fine-tuned, no two of us hold the same view of reality, and no two voters hear the same pitch. Already, citizens don't know who to trust or what to believe – about COVID-19 or anything else. If we ask nothing more of tech providers or digital citizens, the fog will continue to thicken. Irritation will merge into despair and then numbness... and democracy teeters. Digital pioneer Cyrus Krohn knows the territory, and in Bombarded: How to Fight Back Against the Online Assault on Democracy, Krohn locates the roots of our blooming political chaos in the earliest days of the World Wide Web. But he goes beyond recounting 25 years of destabilizing Internet shock waves and his own role in building digital culture. Krohn rolls out a provocative action plan for rescuing the American system of campaigns and elections while there is still time. "Trying to shield yourself from disinformation and deep fakes? Cyrus Krohn offers a 'five-step program' to fight back. This book rings true. —Jill Dougherty, Former CNN Moscow Bureau Chief

Gunpowder Jack Kelly, 2009-04-27 When Chinese alchemists fashioned the first manmade explosion sometime during the tenth century, no one could have foreseen its full revolutionary potential. Invented to frighten evil spirits rather than fuel guns or bombs-neither of which had been thought of yet-their simple mixture of saltpeter, sulfur, and charcoal went on to make the modern world possible. As word of its explosive properties spread from Asia to Europe, from pyrotechnics to battleships, it paved the way for Western exploration, hastened the end of feudalism and the rise of the nation state, and greased the wheels of the Industrial Revolution. With dramatic immediacy, novelist and journalist Jack Kelly conveys both the distant time in which the devil's distillate rose to conquer the world, and brings to rousing life the eclectic cast of characters who played a role in its epic story, including Michelangelo, Edward III, Vasco da Gama, Cortez, Guy Fawkes, Alfred Nobel, and E.I. DuPont. A must-read for history fans and military buffs alike, Gunpowder brings together a rich terrain of cultures and technological innovations with authoritative research and swashbuckling style.

The Defence of the Dardanelles Michael Forrest, 2013-01-19 This WWI history examines the Ottoman Army's defense of the Dardanelle Strait during Winston Churchill's failed Gallipoli Campaign. The Dardanelles Strait, separating Europe and Asia Minor, was fortified in the fifteenth century with massive bronze bombards causing any unwelcome ships to run a truly formidable gauntlet. And indeed it was on March 18th, 1915, when a powerful fleet of British and French warships attempted to clear the Strait. The attack failed at the cost of three ships sunk and three more seriously damaged. The Allied failure to take control the Strait led to its disastrous invasion of Gallipoli. Using maps, photographs, and other illustrations, this in-depth study examines the strengths of the Turkish defenses, including the Ottoman Army's reliance on German Krupp guns. Historian Michael Forrest also assesses the relative strengths and weaknesses of the Royal and French Navies, as well as the flaws of Winston Churchill's strategy. Damningly, Forrest's research proves that British intelligence sources had previously assessed that a naval attack alone would not succeed. Many of the fortifications on the Gallipoli peninsula and the Asian shore are still accessible. This volume helpfully identifies those that can be visited, many of which still have wrecked guns emplaced.

Bombard,2017-02-06 In the second Jason Kraft novel, Jason's case takes him into the rarified academic environment of a Massachusetts college preparatory school where two student drug-overdose deaths in 10 days threaten to ruin the elite school's reputation and decimate future enrollments. Jason, enabled by his DEA manager who sits on the school's board of trustees, is charged with finding the source of the heroin and shutting it down. Jason must decide who he can trust at the school to help him discover the hidden truths about the Red-Hooded League, a phrase coined by the smartest student in the senior class, who is now dead from an overdose. As clues begin to reveal the truth about the student deaths, Jason confronts his past and must decide to keep going or not... This is a story about good and evil and Jason's quest to find the truth to solve the mystery of The Red-Hooded League.

More than 1500 books about Vincent exist, but none like this. More than 250 organizations founded or inspired by Vincent exist today, 400 years after he lived. Why is that? We are all Vincentians if we work for the poor, even if we don't know it! Faith-based organizations need to know the gems of wisdom within this book. Vincent dedicated his life to relieving the conditions of the poor wherever he found them-in the streets, in prisons, on his doorstep-and asking the quintessential question: Something must be done; what must I do? Ask yourself, Do I need to read a book on fundraising? The answer is, Yes-this one. Two reasons for reading: first is the wisdom and practical tips herein are time-tested. How much time? Nearly 400 years. The authors demonstrate the leadership legacy of St. Vincent de Paul (1581-1660), the Patron Saint of Charity. His organizational and management brilliance inspired new organizations and thousands in service. Vincent said, The poor suffer less from a lack of generosity than from a lack of organization. He set about to fix that by organizing the first systematic approaches to social service. Second, you will be inspired by what you read here to recommit yourself to the work you do-to serve and to create your own legacy. You will find never-before-told stories of Vincentian organizations around the world, led by people who follow Vincent's maxim: It is not enough to do good, it must be done well.

Command Of The Air General Giulio Douhet,2014-08-15
In the pantheon of air power spokesmen, Giulio Douhet holds center stage. His writings, more often cited than perhaps actually read, appear as excerpts and aphorisms in the writings of numerous other air power spokesmen, advocates-and critics. Though a highly controversial figure, the very controversy that surrounds him offers to us a testimonial of the value and depth of his work, and the need for airmen today to become familiar with his thought. The progressive development of air power to the point where, today, it is more correct to refer to aerospace power has not outdated the notions of Douhet in the slightest. In fact, in many ways, the kinds of technological capabilities that we enjoy as a global air power provider attest to the breadth of his vision. Douhet, together with Hugh “Boom” Trenchard of Great Britain and William “Billy” Mitchell of the United States, is justly recognized as one of the three great spokesmen of the early air power era. This reprint is offered in the spirit of continuing the dialogue that Douhet himself so perceptively began with the first edition of this book, published in 1921. Readers may well find much that they disagree with in this book, but also much that is of enduring value. The vital necessity of Douhet’s central vision—that command of the air is all important in modern warfare—has been proven throughout the history of wars in this century, from the fighting over the Somme to the air war over Kuwait and Iraq.
