Miriam Cordwell, Marion Rudoy

Cowlick! Christin Ditchfield, 2013-06-26 . . . She comes in the middle of the night, when everyone is sleeping. When she sees a smooth little head on a pillow, she can't resist giving it a cow kiss—sluuurrrp! Cowlick! gives young readers an imaginative and playful explanation for the bedhead that afflicts us all!

Cowlick Linda Street-Ely, 2017-02-05 Sometimes people say mean things that hurt our feelings, and we don't understand why they do that. Six-year-old Sanderson Hamilton Jefferson Burrison loved his family, their home on the farm, their cows, and his teacher. Everyone called him Cowlick because of the tuft of hair that stood up at the top of his forehead. Excited about starting first grade, Cowlick soon learned that not everyone understood the love of cows as he did. Not everyone liked his nickname, or his hair. As Cowlick learned, even when people say mean things we can be strong, and we can win by doing things that are right. Climb inside Cowlick's story and find out how a boy was brave, even when other children were making fun of him. Then talk about it: Who won, what was won, what was the right thing to do, and why it was right?

Cowlicks E. Ray Dorsey, 2011-12 Cowlicks The First Day of Spring is series # 1 of the Cowlicks subtitles yet to come. Which are meant to stimulate young imaginations and celebrate the purity of childhood. So in these run-on's, you may find that we do share the same walk of life... Have you ever experienced a perfect spring day during the early morn or early eve when the sun is gently rising or slowly sinking giving just the right warmth to swaddle you up and make the green grasses a greener shade as just enough breeze to nudge your senses brings you a soft caress on the brow with a light bouquet from a freshly tilled garden, a woods or from an old Maple near by? Have you ever really looked at the lavender clouds that only so often surround a rising or a setting amber sun like a shroud they would drape the shoulders of a Majestic peace keeper in all silence and praise, poised upon him modestly moving the Earth onto it's feet or bowing to her sweetest dreams? Or have you ever noticed the gradual illuminations of fresh morning dew laid placid on your neighbor's flowering garden from sometime during your slumber has repaired to catch the eye of the rising sun when its just high enough to reflect a glaring from their reds, their whites, their purples, pinks, and yellows on your walk back home from the bus stop while Preschooler recites them all in Awe? If you have ever been in a places like these, you've already been to Duskie Catie Land and welcome back!
