The Gone World Tom Sweterlitsch, 2019-02-05 Inception meets True Detective in this science fiction thriller of spellbinding tension and staggering scope that follows a special agent into a savage murder case with grave implications for the fate of mankind.... "I promise you have never read a story like this."—Blake Crouch, New York Times bestselling author of Dark Matter Shannon Moss is part of a clandestine division within the Naval Criminal Investigative Service. In western Pennsylvania, 1997, she is assigned to solve the murder of a Navy SEAL's family—and to locate his vanished teenage daughter. Though she can't share the information with conventional law enforcement, Moss discovers that the missing SEAL was an astronaut aboard the spaceship U.S.S. Libra—a ship assumed lost to the currents of Deep Time. Moss knows first-hand the mental trauma of time-travel and believes the SEAL's experience with the future has triggered this violence. Determined to find the missing girl and driven by a troubling connection from her own past, Moss travels ahead in time to explore possible versions of the future, seeking evidence to crack the present-day case. To her horror, the future reveals that it's not only the fate of a family that hinges on her work, for what she witnesses rising over time's horizon and hurtling toward the present is the Terminus: the terrifying and cataclysmic end of humanity itself. Luminous and unsettling, The Gone World bristles with world-shattering ideas yet remains at its heart an intensely human story.

District 9 Maryam Rehman, 2023-02-24 Andrew thought his life couldn't get any better but soon found himself wondering if it could get any worse. After all the struggles of his trainee years, he managed to debut with his friends. Everything was perfect until he was asked to join IBU, who were creating a team of undercover agents to start a search operation on the Finitary Bros, the greatest mafia of all time. As time passed by, he realized that this wasn't what he was hoping for. He didn't expect to be meeting his old enemy. And here began the rivalry, a rivalry that destroyed him and his loved ones, a rivalry that almost took his life, a rivalry that was once a friendship. Sometimes the people that are the closest to you could be your biggest enemies, he said. As he thought things were starting to get better, the lighting struck harder than ever. In a mood to delete everything, go missing for a month, get my life back together, and come back.

Science Fiction Double Feature J. P. Telotte, Gerald Duchovnay, 2015 Critical discussion of cult cinema has often noted its tendency to straddle or ignore boundaries, to pull together different sets of conventions, narrative formulas, or character types for the almost surreal pleasure to be found in their sudden juxtapositions or narrative combination. With its own boundary-blurring nature - as both science and fiction, reality and fantasy - science fiction has played a key role in such cinematic cult formation. This volume examines that largely unexplored relationship, looking at how the sf film's own double nature neatly matches up with a persistent double vision common to the cult film. It does so by bringing together an international array of scholars to address key questions about the intersections of sf and cult cinema: how different genre elements, directors, and stars contribute to cult formation; what role fan activities, including con participation, play in cult development; and how the occulted or bad sf cult film works. The volume pursues these questions by addressing a variety of such sf cult works, including Robot Monster (1953), Zardoz (1974), A Boy and His Dog (1975), Tetsuo: The Iron Man (1989), Space Truckers (1996), Ghost in the Shell 2 (2004), and Iron Sky (2012). What these essays afford is a revealing vision of both the sf aspects of much cult film activity and the cultish aspects of the whole sf genre.

Mockumenting South Africa? Race and Segregation in "District 9" Julian Schürholz,2010 Studienarbeit aus dem Jahr 2010 im Fachbereich Amerikanistik - Sonstiges, Technische Universität Carolo-Wilhelmina zu Braunschweig (Englisches Seminar der TU Braunschweig), Veranstaltung: Introduction to Film: History, Theory, Analysis, Sprache: Deutsch, Abstract: District 9, one of the movie blockbusters of 2009, was directed and co-written by Neill Blomkamp, produced by Peter Jackson, and is nominated for four Oscars (cf. IMDb). It is a documentary-style fiction movie whose story revolves around a (para-)military relocation operation of over one million aliens, who have been living in a hermetically sealed off slum near the South African city of Johannesburg since the early 1980s. Tensions arose between the human and the alien population, ultimately leading to the relocation operation. The leader of the operation is Wikus van der Merwe, a naïve white-collar worker, who, in the course of the movie, accidentally infects himself with a virus that slowly turns him into an alien. Considering the real-world history of the movie's setting, thrilling similarities between events during the time of the South African Apartheid regime and the story of District 9 catch one's eye. The most blatant one is the forced relocation of around 60,000 people from the Sixth Municipal District of Cape Town in the course of a large-scale government program to segregate South African society by assigning a certain area of the country exclusively to one specific ethnic group. Moreover, the major player in the story of District 9 is the private security firm MNU, which also finds its counterpart in recent South African history. Through large parts of the movie, District 9 pretends to be a patchwork of media edited into a documentary. This paper will deal with the question of whether District 9 is a mockumentary about real-life South Africa, especially Cape Town's District Six. The first part of this paper will focus on content and give a rough outline of the most important historic event
