Public Management and the Metagovernance of Hierarchies, Networks and Markets Louis Meuleman,2008-04-03 Public managers can, to a certain extent, choose between various management paradigms which are provided by public and business administration scholars and by politicians as well. How do they find their way in this confusing supermarket of competing ideas? This book explores how public managers in Western bureaucracies deal with the mutually undermining ideas of hierarchical, network and market governance. Do they possess a specific logic of action, a rationale, when they combine and switch between these governance styles? This chapter sets the scene for the book as a whole and presents the research topic and the research question. 1.1 Problem setting Since the Second World War, Western public administration systems have changed drastically. The hierarchical style of governing of the 1950s to the 1970s was partly replaced by market mechanisms, from the 1980s onwards. In the 1990s, a third style of governing, based on networks, further enriched the range of possible steering, coordination and organisation interventions. In the new millennium, public sector organisations seem to apply complex and varying mixtures of all three styles of what we will define as governance in a broad sense. This development has brought about two problems.

Mobilities Facing Hydrometeorological Extreme Events 2 Celine Lutoff,Severine Durand,2020-03-07 Mobilities Facing Hydrometeorological Extreme Events 2 covers our need to understand how the interaction of hydro-meteorological, social and development dynamics combine to bring improvement to or a worsening of both mobile and immobile exposure. The book provides a summary of the interdisciplinary work done over the past ten years. Residential mobility—the way in which the occupation of flood zones evolves over time—and its resulting immobile exposure are also at the heart of this work. In addition, the book explores how climate change and its relation to fast floods in various regions of the world, especially the Mediterranean, is creating extreme events. Provides a comprehensive understanding of residential and daily mobilities in extreme hydrometeorological situations Updates on mobility adaptation cycles in the face of extreme hydro-meteorological events
