The Papers of Andrew Johnson Andrew Johnson, Paul H. Bergeron, 1967 The correspondence in this volume is related to Johnson's presidency during the Reconstruction Era, including the president's impeachment and the subsequent trial, which resulted in the Senate narrowly voting not to remove him from office.

The Lost Son Heath Johnson, 2016-01-05 The Lost Son is about a man who has lost his wife, lost his baby son, lost his job, and lost his way. It's a story about a man who will go through anything, deal with anybody, and wander any wilderness to reunite with his son, and who, along the way, finds himself.

The Pride (the Hunt Series Book 2) Tim Heath, 2017-07-27 Weaves the powerful and the everyman into a game of extreme survival. Kept me gripped. Back Cover Blurb: Who said anything was ever fair? Billionaires don't easily fall--unless they are up against another oligarch. With the Games at their ten-year celebration, the rules are reset for one massive Hunt. For all involved, there are no guarantees on anything--claiming multi-millions a hope, death in the process an equal possibility. With the Russian Presidential election drawing ever closer, the main challengers need to make their move. Ousting Putin is not going to be easy--and there are men to be removed before anything becomes possible. From the Best Selling author of The Tablet, comes the second instalment in The Hunt--his most explosive series yet! #1 Crime Thriller author in the UK#1 Conspiracy Thriller author in the USA Think The Hunger Games but in the real world with Russian oligarchs! What one reader has said: Full of intrigue, double-dealing, death and the wielding of power.

The Politics of Memoir and the Northern Ireland Conflict Stephen Hopkins, 2013 This book examines memoir-writing by many of the key political actors in the Northern Irish Troubles (1969-1998), and argues that memoir has been a neglected dimension of the study of the legacies of the violent conflict. It investigates these sources in the context of ongoing disputes over how to interpret Northern Ireland's recent past. A careful reading of these memoirs can provide insights into the lived experience and retrospective judgments of some of the main protagonists of the conflict. The period of relative peace rests upon an uneasy calm in Northern Ireland. Many people continue to inhabit contested ideological territories, and in their strategies for shaping the narrative telling of the conflict, key individuals within the Protestant Unionist and Catholic Irish Nationalist communities can appear locked into exclusive and self-justifying discourses. In such circumstances, while some memoirists have been genuinely self-critical, many others have utilised a post-conflict language of societal

Derby Day D.J. Taylor, 2021-11-15 Nominated for the Man Booker Prize, an exquisite tale of romance and rivalry, gambling and greed, from one of England's finest writers. As the shadows lengthen over the June grass, all England is heading for Epsom Down?high life and low life, society beauties and White chapel street girls, bookmakers and gypsies, hawkers and thieves. Hopes are high, nerves are taut, hats are tossed in the air?this is Derby Day. For months people have been waiting and plotting for this day. Everyone's eyes are on champion horse Tiberius, on whose performance half a dozen destinies depend. In this rich and exuberant novel, rife with the idioms of Victorian England, the mysteries pile high, propelling us toward the day of the great race, and we wait with bated breath as the story gallops to a finish that no one expects. A Best Book of the Year for 2012

Vertebrates in Complex Tropical Systems Mireille L. Harmelin-Vivien, Francois Bourliere, 2012-12-06

This book addresses the question of what determines species richness in tropical animals by comparing and contrasting the communities of the five major classes of vertebrates in two environments considered to be the most species-rich on Planet Earth - the coral reef and the rainforest. All the contributors were asked to examine how so many species could coexist in such communities and to discuss the ways species assemblages might have evolved over time. Because the coauthors are ecologists, emphasis is quite naturally placed on the first of these two questions, and the factors contributing to the maintenance of a-diversity are discussed at length. However, the question of the very origin of species richness can never be eluded, though it is more an evolutionary problem than an ecological one; it has therefore also been given some attention occasionally. Since we believe that long-term descriptive data and extended field experience are absolutely essential to formulate meaningful questions and propose realistic models, contributors were selected on the basis of their prolonged field practice; all of them actually spent years in the field and/or participated in long-term research programs. The present volume has its origin in a symposium held on August 15, 1986 at Syracuse, New York, during the Fourth International Congress of Ecology.
