Lampy's Early Days (Classic Reprint) An Old Lampooner,2015-08-04 Excerpt from Lampy's Early Days About the middle of January, 1876, The Harvard Lampoon was founded by Ralph Curtis, of the then Senior Class. This journal was established to insure the publication of a dig at Mr. Norton's attempt to develop the Harvard Art Club into a Society of The Dilettantii, that should undertake archaeological excavations at the seats of ancient culture. The Art Club was a feeble organization in which there were a few lovers of art, and not a few members somewhat conspicuously endowed with other than aesthetic tastes. Electronic Universal Vade-Mecum Piotr Mikolajczyk, Bohdan Paszkowski, 2013-09-24 Electronic Universal Vade-Mecum, Volume 1 considers the classification of about 15,000 types of electron devices into a number of groups. Each group includes similar devices irrespective of their marking and production origin. The group arrangement presented in this book has been devised according to a range principle, such as each group includes electron devices differing only insignificantly from those placed in neighboring groups. This indicates that any user of the vade-mecum can easily find all other types of identical or similar characteristics produced by various firms. Each group includes the following data: rated data, typical static data, dynamic (work) data, limiting values, system of socket and connection to circuit, envelope dimensions and certain electronic circuits particularly recommended for each individual group. Each group includes information pertaining to devices of different production periods. Such periods are distinguished by different type-print. Electron devices, mainly electron valves, dating from an early production period, are marked in italics, while commonly used devices are marked in ordinary type. Bold type is used for the most up-to-date and commonly used electron valves and semiconductor devices with particularly advantageous parameters. This book is of value to electronic engineers.

Narratives of the Unspoken in Contemporary Irish Fiction M. Teresa Caneda-Cabrera, José

Carregal-Romero, 2023-07-21 This Open access book is a collection of essays and offers an in-depth analysis of silence as an aesthetic practice and a textual strategy which paradoxically speaks of the unspoken nature of many inconvenient hidden truths of Irish society in the work of contemporary fiction writers. The study acknowledges Ireland's history of damaging silences and considers its legacies, but it also underscores how silence can serve as a valuable, even productive, means of expression. From a wide range of critical perspectives, the individual essays address, among other issues, the conspiracies of silence in Catholic Ireland, the silenced structural oppression of Celtic Tiger Ireland, the recovery of silenced stories/voices of the past and their examination in the present, as well as millennial disaffection and the silencing of vulnerability in today's neoliberal Ireland. The book's attention to silence provides a rich vocabulary for understanding what unfolds in the quiet interstices of Irish writing from recent decades. This study also invokes the past to understand the present and, thus, demonstrates the continuities and discontinuities that define how silence operates in Irish culture. Petrolejové lampy Jaroslav Havlíček, 2021-07-14 Petrolejové lampy jsou psychologickým dramatem nepoddajné ženy zasazeným do kroniky lidských osudů v přelomové době, jejíž události daleko přesahují rozměry maloměst, v němž se román odehrává. Příběhu vévodí mistrnů vystižené, nejednoznačné, vnitřně rozporné, a proto opravdově živé postavy, jejichž charakter se vyhrává v krajních situacích, před nimiž není úniku. Hlavní hrdinka Štěpka, robustní amazonka obdařená dravou energií, si od dětství navykla na nepochopení, ale i obdiv. Bouří se proti nesmyslnosti osudu a její život trvale pohání napětí mezi vytouženým ideálem a reálnými okolnostmi. Boh událostí dokáže silnými rukama ovládat, jenže ve věcech lásky to neplatí, a tak získává i ztrácí v podivném manželství, jež neodvratně míří k bizarnímu konci. Romantický realista Jaroslav Havlíček, vynikající pozorovatel a autor s mimořádně osobitým, neopakovatelným viděním světa, stvořil v tomto románu fascinující obraz všeobecné proměny z přelomu století, jež pokračuje až do našich dnů.

Nothing On But the Radio Gil Murray,2003-09-01 Radio made its debut in the early twentieth century, and the world was never the same. The mysterious magic box brought people together as no other communication medium had ever done. In Nothing On but the Radio, author Gil Murray tells how the new household toy put voices and music into millions of homes. In the 1920s, families gathered around the crystal set; in the 1930s, radio comedians helped offset the Depression; in the wartime 1940s, radio kept up morale; in the 1950s and 1960s, its music, news, and information spread knowledge and entertainment. This book spotlights a popular revolution that was never quiet.

The First Time Ever Jan G. Otterstrom Fonnesebeck,2012-01-10 Oh how the truth does bite. After class had closed, standing by the desk, of my seventh grade teacher. I was receiving, a large spoon full of that bitter but, necessary medicine called truth. “Well now Freddy Maguyer Tarrant” said the crotchety old Irish teacher. “Here you are showing up on your first day at this school for the blind with all the qualifications that should send you straight back to the fourth or fifth grade. However, since you are twelve years old, I’ll give you just one chance to buckle down and work your way out of your abysmal condition of ignorance. Just in this first day of class, I have learned that you have no understanding of numbers and most remarkably you do not even know the alphabet. You must have been living in a cave. Furthermore, it is inconceivable that the teachers you have had in the past have brought you to this point, knowing so little.” “They too must have lived in caves.” Standing silently by Miss Feelin’s desk, I felt a deep and overwhelming sense of dread and yet a deeper sense of burning shame. I knew in my heart of hearts that what she said was true. Two hundred miles from home in a boarding school for the blind, knowing nothing, I thought, when Miss Feelin said: “Now here is a poem in braille, Freddy, that you must learn by heart and recite before the class on Friday and no excuses”. “This poem is entitled, “To a Waterfowl” by William Cullen Bryant and in this poem there are five words, in particular, that you must remember to your dying day, yes, to your dying day”. These five words are: “Lone wandering, but not lost”, I repeat, “Lone wandering, but not lost” and you must never ever forget these words. These five words burst from old Miss Feelin with a nerve shattering shriek, with her knuckles banging on her desk top, for emphasis. “Now you remember what I’ve told and be off to your next class for you remind me of an Irish fiddle, all strings and no bow. I expect that every vagrant breeze that comes along will have its way with you.” That was 1938 and now it is seventy-three years later. And yes, I did learn those miserable numbers and even learned the alphabet. Those five words “Lone wandering, but not lost” have stood me in good stead, and yes, these vagrant breezes rushing down from these old, old hills around Palmares, Costa Rica do have their way with me. They touch the strings of my heart and set the memories to dancing. I invite you to read, reflect and enjoy the “First Time Ever”.

What’s to blame? The Abominable Trashman, one of the weirdest, wildest creatures to ever leap out of a garbage can! The Abominable Trashman and his evil creator, Awful Alvin, are spreading fear throughout Bumblyburg and turning the citizens into slaves of their own fear.
