They need to leave their home immediately and disguise themselves to avoid discovery. Joe is thrilled - until he discovers that he has to pretend to be a girl and start his new school as Josephine! Joe

(now 'Josephine') is miserable when he starts his new school in a blonde wig, dress and tights. But soon he has a spy mission of his own. Using a host of unusual gadgets, Joe investigates some suspicious goings-on. But can he do so without revealing his true identity?

His dad hands him a disguise and they're out the door, his mom driving the family to safety as if she were in a Formula 1 car while his dad works the dashboard like an experienced computer hacker. What is going on? Joe's parents are no ordinary mom and dad. As professional spies, they are experts in their field, but they've been undercover so long that they thought their secret was safe! Now, their covers have been blown, and they're going to need to start over somewhere else. This time, Joe's in on the mission. And he's going to have to go undercover. As a girl. "No way," says Joe. "Absolutely no way!" But his family's safety is the top priority, and the people who are after them won't be looking for a family with a girl. Joe is about to become Josie, and it doesn't matter if the tights itch his thighs or that it's drafty under his dress. It's up to him to keep his family safe! He's on a mission, and there might be some pretty cool gadgets involved. Dive into a new chapter book series that is sure to keep you laughing from page to page. Bullies, Tyrants, and Impossible People Ronald M. Shapiro, Mark A. Jankowski, James M. Dale, 2007-04-24 The impossible people who make life's journey so difficult are everywhere—at the office, in restaurants, on airplanes, living next door, members of your own family. They're . . . • your "nothing is ever good enough" boss • the "no price is ever low enough" client • the next-door neighbor who redefines the meaning of paranoia • the maître d' who looks through you as if you don't exist • the father-in-law who you know is always thinking about how much better a life his Janey or Joey would have if only married to someone other than you Ron Shapiro and Mark Jankowski give you a simple and highly effective 4-point plan for dealing with all of them and more—N.I.C.E. Their system shows you how to neutralize your emotions so you don't just react but act purposefully and wisely. It enables you to identify the type of bully, tyrant, or impossible person you're facing—the situationally difficult (something has happened that turns an otherwise reasonable person into a temporary terror); the strategically difficult (she has empirical evidence that being difficult is a strategy that gets results); or simply difficult (being difficult is his 24/7 M.O.). Then you'll learn how to shape the outcome by controlling the encounter and, finally, how to get "unstuck" by exploring your options. Using colorful stories from all walks of life— "He called me the scum of the earth and it went downhill from there," "First, lock all your vendors in a small room," and "The boss from hell"—the authors bring their lessons to life, from business life to family life.
