Moon People 2 Dale M. Courtney,2009-01-21 Moon People 2 This story is about the space Adventures of 1st Science Officer Captain David Braymer and his transition from the Lunar Base 1 base station to his new home the Powleens traded them called the Aurora,a spaceship that looks like a Moon also known as Goddess of The Dawn it is 10 kilometers in diameter and with light speed capability. It's the size of a small city.It has everything a small city would have like two hospitals and restaurants and shopping malls all over the ship. Captain Braymer also has a romantic attachment to a young lady by the name of Lieutenant Heather Courtney who is an Officers Aid.They have a few out of the ordinary experiences that they do not forget any time soon. And our new friends the Powleens have advanced us centuries ahead of our time. They also traded us for five of their newest ships in their space fleet all with light speed capability with all of their weapons in tacked. They traded us for all kinds of their gadgetrÝs and even some of their food. That's what they do go all over the Galaxy looking for friends and ultimate knowledge and trade with everyone they can find.Commander Braymer also has a mission to do a genesis on Mars that turns out surprisingly good with a few added benefits. One of the benefits was discovering a lot of Martian people and animals in a Noah ark kind of setup that has been frozen for over 100,000 years in life support chambers. They were all brought back to life again. There were many discoveries' not to mention all of the futuristic weapons they find with aircraft all superior to anything at present by anyone. And nobody expected the Martians to have special mental powers like telekinetic and telekinesis and all sorts of mental telepathy powers like mind transference and the power to levitate in the air. Well everything was going pretty smooth until Galactic war breaks out all over the universe and the final Battle happens in our solar system. It was Earth with the Powleen people and also the Martians against the snake looking people called the Arcons and their friends the Thracians who resemble dog like people with sharp claws. There were crashed ships all over our planets and their moons in our solar system. It was the Battle of all Battles. It decided the control of our Galaxy. If you think all of this sounds good wait till you read the book, its action packed from start to finish. I know you will enjoy Moon People Trilogy. It's some of my best work. And don't worry some day you just might see something that resembles Moon People 3coming to your local Book store near you. Thank you and God Bless. Dale M.Courtney Author

Lunar Island Ship J. I. McKinney,2015-07-14 A lunar scan satellite sees something suspicious and sends Colonel Mike Davis to investigate, debunk and return home. Easy mission complicated by a ship on the surface with the crew's remains still at their stations. Placing his hand on a pedestal with an imprint he reactivates part of the crew. Movement on the moon's surface near his lander and the subsequent sound of someone or something knocking on the lander's hatch begins the Colonel's life altering adventure.

The Moon Ship N A G Eyell,2021-12-31 Once upon a time there was a beautiful princess in the kingdom of Zoryz, a princess who was beautiful on the outside but also on the inside, a princess with a pure heart who grew up with the knowledge that she would one day ascend the throne and rule her kingdom. A pure heart, a kingdom to lead and a betrothed, who seems to be the perfect groom for her flawless heart, or at least he appeared to be the right one, until Georgiana meets Omar... But will the perfect Georgiana be able to break someone else's heart? Will Georgiana be able to achieve her happily ever after? As a highly imaginative child, A G N Eyell always loved her English lessons. She was born in London at the beginning of the swinging sixties attending an all-girls grammar school where her short story writing flourished. Sadly, and to the disappointment of her teacher, she allowed the ridicule of her friends to deter her from this path. Instead, she made it her mission to read a broad spectrum of genres and now favours authors such as Daphne Du Maurier, R F Delderfield, Somerset Maugham, George Eliot, Ian Mc Ewan, John Fowles, Thomas Hardy, Guy de Maupassant, and Andrea Levy, to name but a few. She did not return to story writing until she had moved to Dorset, now a mother and in her late twenties. Here she kept various animals of all sorts of shapes and sizes, especially horses. She also began many a half-written story inspired by attending local creative writing classes. By this time, she had studied English Literature, mainly Austen and Shakespeare. Other studies had included Art History, Ancient Greek and Spanish. As soon as her son was grown, she started to fulfil, although be it in a small way, her ambition to explore Europe and its cultures. She had been initiated to this as a small child in long car rides with her parents mostly in Spain. Later in life, she was able to live in the Valencian region of that country. Not long after she discovered the Greek island of Syros which is where she started what has now become her debut novel, The Moon Ship. Nowadays, she finds herself lucky to unostentatiously be on this island, where she is learning the language. At long last, she can set herself to doing what she thinks she does best, and that is writing. There is no doubt that her immediate environment, be it of geographical observation, or just the existence of being amongst island people living island lives, has had a profound effect on the content of The Moon Ship.

Building Moonships Joshua Stoff,2004 In 1961, after the United States had acquired a total of fifteen minutes of spaceflight experience, President John F. Kennedy announced his plans for landing a man on the moon by 1970. The space race had begun. In 1962, after a strenuous competition, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) announced that the Grumman Aircraft Engineering Corporation of Bethpage, Long Island, had won the contract to build the lunar module-the spacecraft that would take Americans to the moon. This was the first, and the only, vehicle designed to take humans from one world to another. Although much has been written about the first men to set foot on the moon, those first hesitant steps would not have been possible without the efforts of the designers and technicians assigned to Project Apollo. Building Moonships: The Grumman Lunar Module tells the story of the people who built and tested the lunar modules that were deployed on missions as well as the modules that never saw the light of day. This is the first publication to chronicle the visual history of the design, construction, and launch of the lunar module-one of the most historic machines in all of human history.

Back to the Moon Travis S. Taylor,Les Johnson,2010-12-01 THE SECOND TIME AROUND³IS HARDER . . . Decades after the last footprints were left on the Moon, the U.S. was preparing to return to the Lunar surface in a new class of rockets, when the mission suddenly became much more urgent. It would have to be a rescue mission. Unbeknownst to the rest of the world China had sent its own Lunar expedition. A manned expedition. Until a distress call was received, no human outside of China even knew that the mission was manned³or that their ship had crash-landed and couldn't take off again. Time was running out, and if the four Chinese astronauts were to be rescued, the American lunar mission would have to launch immediately, with only a skeleton crew. Once the heroic U.S. astronauts were underway the army of engineers and scientists back home had the daunting task of deciding what equipment could be left on the Moon to permit the Lunar lander vehicle vehicle to lift safely from the Moon with the two U.S. astronauts and the four stranded Chinese taikonauts! Could the U.S. mount such a mission successfully³and would thousands of years of instilled honor _allow0 the Chinese astronauts to accept a rescue? At the publisher's request, this title is sold without DRM (Digital Rights Management).

The Lunar Exploration Scrapbook Robert Godwin,2007 In 1938 a committee of the British Interplanetary Society drew up the first serious plans for a manned lunar spacecraft. The BIS moon ship would be the first in a long line of designs that would ultimately lead to Tranquility Base and beyond. Working alongside engineers and scientists from Britain, Canada and Germany, the elite of American industrial engineers turned their attention to not only reaching the moon but to establishing a long-term presence there. Between 1958 and 1971 millions of man-hours and untold amounts of money were spent to try and create the hardware necessary to accomplish this unprecedented goal. In this book for the first time in one place, is a pictorial register of many of these incredible designs. A remarkable story of what might have happened if the mighty Saturn V rocket had not been relegated to the status of an historical footnote. In his latest book, The Lunar Exploration Scrapbook, noted editor and writer Robert Godwin, has distilled years of research into an unprecedented look at the many machines considered by the United States for lunar exploration. Combining the blueprints of the 1950s and 1960s with modern computer graphics, Godwin has brought to life many of the past, and packed them all into one tightly woven package of colour and facts. The Lunar Exploration Scrapbook features colour texture-wrapped renderings of dozens of designs that never left the drawing board, creating a unique look at what might have happened if money had been no object, and humanity had gone to the moon to stay.

By Space Ship to the Moon Jack Coggins,Fletcher Pratt,1952 Discusses possible ways in which the moon might be explored, including building space stations, moon bases, and using specialized clothing and equipment.

Let's Go to the Moon Michael Chester,1974 The reader becomes the captain of a spaceship to the moon, rides in a moon rover, collects samples, and then returns to the orbiting spaceship and earth.

Captain Collier and the Moon Scott C. Anderson,2018-08-15 Commerce Drives Innovation-There is earnest research and speculation within our civilization that the moon may be hollow. This book does not debate the issue, but presents a fictional story of the moon orbiting our earth planet. Adnon Collier constructed a massive container ship to house his extensive collection of interstellar alien transports, yachts, and battleships. Intentionally shaped to aid the biosphere of a blue-water world, Adnon's moon ship resembles a naturally-occurring planetary body in space. Aboard this massive container are hotels and services to help a fleeing civilization. The Lucien, bowing to an ancient prophecy that becomes reality, flee the volcanic destruction of their homeworld. This moon is one avenue of escape for a people struggling to save their lives. Adnon Collier is neither a saint nor sinner, but he will get involved. The Dora are an honorable people, and that honor will be testing along the path to the new world.

Lost on the Moon Roy Rockwood,2014-04-11 Roy Rockwood was a house pseudonym used by the Stratemeyer Syndicate for boy's adventure books. The name is mostly well-remembered for the Bomba, the Jungle Boy (1926-1937) and Great Marvel series (1906- 1935). The Stratemeyer Syndicate was the producer of a number of series for children and adults including the Nancy Drew mysteries, the Hardy Boys, and others. The Stratemeyer Syndicate was the creation of Edward Stratemeyer, whose ambition was to be a writer la Horatio Alger. He succeeded in this ambition (eventually even writing eleven books under the pseudonym Horatio Alger), turning out inspirational, up-by-the-bootstraps tales. In Stratemeyer's view, it was not the promise of sex or violence that made such reading attractive to boys; it was the thrill of feeling grown-up and the desire for a series of stories, an I want some more syndrome. Works written under that name include: Five Thousand Miles Underground; or, The Mystery of the Centre of the Earth (1908), Jack North's Treasure Hunt (1907) and Lost on the Moon; or, In Quest of the Field of Diamonds (1911).

Apollo 13 Jim Lovell,Jeffrey Kluger,2000 In April 1970, during the glory days of the Apollo space program, NASA sent Navy Captain Jim Lovell and two other astronauts on America's fifth mission to the moon. Only fifty-five hours into the flight of Apollo 13, disaster struck: a mysterious explosion rocked the ship, and soon its oxygen and power began draining away. Written with all the color and drama of the best fiction, APOLLO 13 (previously published as Lost Moon) tells the full story of the moon shot that almost ended in catastrophe. Minutes after the explosion, the three astronauts are forced to abandon the main ship for the lunar module, a tiny craft designed to keep two men alive for just two days. As the hours tick away, the narrative shifts from the crippled spacecraft to Mission Control, from engineers searching desperately for a way to fix the ship to Lovell's wife and children praying for his safe return. The entire nation watches as one crisis after another is met and overcome. By the time the ship splashes down in the Pacific, we understand why the heroic effort to rescue Lovell and his crew is considered by many to be NASA's finest hour. Now, thirty years after the launch of the mission, Jim Lovell and coauthor Jeffrey Kluger add a new preface and never-before-seen photographs to Apollo 13. In their preface, they offer an incisive look at America's waxing and waning love affair with space exploration during the past three decades, culminating only recently when the Apollo 13 spacecraft itself, long consigned to an aviation museum outside Paris, was at last returned to its rightful home in the United States. As inspiring today as it was thirty years ago, the story of Apollo 13 is a timeless tribute to the enduring American spirit and sparkling individual heroism.

Apollo 13 James Lovell,Jeffrey Kluger,2019-02-12 NATIONAL BESTSELLER. Astronaut Jim Lovell and coauthor Jeffrey Kluger's harrowing account of the Apollo 13 disaster. Serving as the basis for Ron Howard's blockbuster Apollo 13, the book reveals true details not shown in the movie. Thrilling and evocative, you feel as though you're alongside Lovell in the lunar module. Written with all the color and drama of the best fiction, Apollo 13 tells the full story of the moon shot that almost ended in catastrophe. Minutes after a mid-flight explosion, the three astronauts are forced to abandon the main ship for the lunar module, a tiny craft designed to keep two men alive for just two days.? As the hours tick away, the narrative shifts from the crippled spacecraft to Mission Control, from engineers searching desperately for a way to fix the ship to Lovell's wife and children praying for his safe return. The entire nation watches as one crisis after another is met and overcome. By the time the ship splashes down in the Pacific, we understand why the heroic effort to rescue Lovell and his crew is considered by many to be NASA's finest hour.? Inspiring and astonishing, the story of Apollo 13 is a timeless tribute to the enduring American spirit and sparkling individual heroism.

Lost on the Moon Roy Rockwood,2014-09-26 [...]one else, should attempt to bring all those precious stones to this earth, it would revolutionize the diamond industry of the world. It can't be true! Well, here It is, in plain print. You can read it for yourself, as you know the Martian language as well as I do. It states that a large field of 'Reonaris' was discovered on the moon near Mare Tranquilitatis (or Tranquil Ocean, I suppose that could be translated), and that the men of Mars brought back some of the Reonaris with them. Here, read it, if you don't believe me. Oh, I believe you, all right--that is, I think you have translated that article as well as you can. But suppose you have made some error? We didn't have much time to study the language of Mars while we were there, and we might make some mistake in the words. That article might be an account of a dog-fight on the red[...].
