The Tale of Old Mr. Crow Arthur Bailey,2017-03-18 A good many of the forest-people claimed that old Mr. Crow was an outlaw. Mr. Crow had spent a good many pleasant seasons in Pleasant Valley. And nobody had ever found out much about him.Sometimes it is good to be in a place where no one know much about us, it feels safe and relax.

The Tale Of Old Mr. Crow Bailey Arthur Scott,2023-05 A wise and witty old crow named Mr. Crow is the main character of Arthur Scott Bailey's children's book, The Tale of Old Mr. Crow, a part of the Sleepy-Time Tales series. This book not only entertains children but also teaches them about animal behavior and nature. Mr. Crow shares his home in a tree with his family and friends and is admired throughout the forest for his intelligence. At some point, Mr. Crow has an interesting encounter. In search of a new residence for his kinfolk, Crow embarks on a journey fraught with obstacles. He must use creative strategies to outwit a hungry predator and outmaneuver a fierce aerial attacker before finding the perfect place for his home. Can Crow triumph over these challenges? Will he be able to construct his dream dwelling? Old Mr. Crow's chronicle imparts valuable wisdom on ingenuity, tenacity, and the significance of kinship and society.

The Tale of Old Mr. Crow Bailey Arthur Scott 1877-,HardPress,2013-06 Unlike some other reproductions of classic texts (1) We have not used OCR(Optical Character Recognition), as this leads to bad quality books with introduced typos. (2) In books where there are images such as portraits, maps, sketches etc We have endeavoured to keep the quality of these images, so they represent accurately the original artefact. Although occasionally there may be certain imperfections with these old texts, we feel they deserve to be made available for future generations to enjoy.

The Adventures of Mr Crow Zacharoula Bongard,2023-01-06 He ran and grabbed it by its legs and tied the bird up. He was ready to toss him into the river... The poor old crow looked doomed, but the kind farmer Mr Anestis took pity on the creature and gave him a job to do instead: protecting and harvesting his strawberries in the fields...

Bribiesca,2019-05-02 The Crow, The Tree and Spittle Lee the Fighting Bee By: Albert M. Bribiesca The Crow, The Tree and Spittle Lee the Fighting Bee is a fable that warns children against the perils and life-long repercussions of joining a gang. The author hopes to open the eyes of boys and girls to the horror of his own ordeal and prevent them from making the same mistakes. The book is very accessible with a strong moral message. As with the crow and the bee, the question is, "What can I do to make a difference?"

Anderson Crow: Detective George Barr McCutcheon,2020-09-28 Two events of great importance took place in Tinkletown on the night of May 6, 1918. The first, occurring at half-past ten o'clock, was of sufficient consequence to rouse the entire population out of bed—thereby creating a situation, almost unique, which allowed every one in town to participate in all the thrills of the second. When the history of Tinkletown is written,—and it is said to be well under way at the hands of that estimable authoress, Miss Sue Becker, some fifty years a resident of the town and the great-granddaughter of one of its founders,—when this history is written, the night of May 6, 1918, will assert itself with something of the same insistence that causes the world to refresh its memory occasionally by looking into the encyclopedia to determine the exact date of the Fall of the Bastile. The fire-bell atop the town hall heralded the first event, and two small boys gave notice of the second. Smock's grain-elevator, on the outskirts of the town, was in flames, and with a high wind blowing from the west, the Congregational and Baptist churches, the high school, Pratt's photograph gallery and the two motion-picture houses were threatened with destruction. As Anderson Crow, now deputy marshal of the town, declared the instant he arrived at the scene of the conflagration, nothing but the most heroic and indefatigable efforts on the part of the volunteer fire-department could save the town—only he put it in this way: We'll have another Chicago fire here, sure as you're born, unless it rains or the wind changes mighty all-fired sudden; so we got to fight hard, boys. Mr. Crow, also deputy superintendent of the fire-department, was late in getting to the engine-house back of the town hall—so late that the hand-engine and hose-reel, manned by volunteers who had waited as long as advisable, were belabouring the fire with water some time before he reached the engine-house. This irritated Mr. Crow considerably. He was out of breath when he got to the elevator, or some one would have heard from him. Another cause of annoyance was the fact that his rubber coat and helmet went with the hose-reel and were by this time adorning the person of an energetic fire-fighter who had no official right to them. After a diligent search Mr. Crow located his regalia and commanded the wearer, one Patrick Murphy, to hand 'em over at once.
