Mama's Daycare Ngozi Edema,2019-06-15 The first day of kindergarten is exciting and filled with anxiety for parents and their kids. This book offers moms some exciting things to do after their babies leave for school! And it is approved by a little girl going to kindergarten. Let her show you what she has planned for her mom in Mama's Daycare!Nene is going to kindergarten. She's got everything ready, her backpack, pencils and her lunchbox. But what about Mum? Does going to kindergarten really have to mean leaving Mum on her own all day? There has to be a better way... Why should you read this book with your kids? 1. it stimulates a child's imagination and helps them to show fellow feeling for others. 2. Many moms feel empty when their children starts school and mom and child can discuss fun ways to fill the void. Never underestimate the imaginations of a child! 3. Most kids may not worry as much as Nene, the main character, but kids also have their own concerns as they move to this new stage of their life. Please use the opportunity after reading this story with your child, ask them what their greatest worries are and help them navigate through these. I do hope that every parent and child will find these book helpful as your child goes to school. Here are a few editorial reviews Reviewed By Jack Magnus for Readers' Favorite Mama's Daycare: Mama and Nene is a children's educational picture book written by Ngozi Edema and illustrated by Swapan Debnath. Nene is so excited that it's finally time for her to go to kindergarten. She's checked and double-checked everything in her pack to make sure she's prepared for that first day. But, as the day approaches, she begins to wonder about her mom. Nene has always been there to keep her mom company -- will Mama be lonely when she's on her own? Then she had the best idea!

Mama's Daycare was directly across the street from the school she would be attending. Nene could simply take her mom to Mama's Daycare, and everything would be fine. There were so many things that could keep her mom busy while she was in school -- and on the weekends, they would be together again. Ngozi Edema's Mama's Daycare: Mama and Nene is a marvelous way to broach the subject of the first day of kindergarten with young readers. Nene's confidence in her own first day and concern over her mom should be inspirational for kids who are approaching the first day of school with a bit of dread. Swapan Debnath's illustrations are marvelous! I loved the autumnal palette she employs to make the season feel like it's almost here. Her panels showing Mama's activities at her Daycare work so well with the original premise of the story. Mama's Daycare: Mama and Nene is most highly recommended. Reviewed By Tammy Ruggles for Readers' Favorite Mama's Daycare (Mama and Nene), written by Ngozi Edema and illustrated by Swapan Debnath, is a cute, colorful children's book about a little girl named Nene, who is getting ready for her first day of school. She is very close to her mom and loves cuddling with her baby doll, Rosie. Nene loves her mom more than anything. Nene is looking forward to school and wants to make sure she has everything she needs, like supplies. She seems all ready except for one thing: What will her mom do without her when she goes off to school? They're so used to being together. What follows is an imaginative story about Nene's fantasy of her mom going to a mommy daycare right across the street from her school, so they can still be in close proximity to each other. The little girl further imagines all the things her mom will do at her mommy daycare, like going to the gym, reading books, and other things. Nene realizes that on the days she doesn't go to school, she and her mom can still do fun things together. Edema has created a charming book that both mothers and children can enjoy.
