Victor Paz Estenssoro Joseph Holtey, 2019-01-09 DESCRIPTION OF THE BOOK This study of the life of Víctor Paz Estenssoro is divided into two parts: the first half of the book consists of a biography of Paz up to his death in 2001; the second half, in the Appendix, is his autobiography up to 1973 in the form of Paz's own narrative presented here as a transcribed text of 12 hours of tape-recorded interviews conducted by Dr. Holtey in that year in La Paz, Bolivia. This new narrative by Paz relates major facts about his ancestry and events in his life up to July 1973. The biographical portion of the present study by the historian Joseph C. Holtey PhD is an analysis of the politically significant events that occurred during the life and times of Víctor Paz Estenssoro, the most important political leader in twentieth-century Bolivian history. It focuses principally on his professional career between the years 1938 and 1989. Paz was the leader of the Movimiento Nacionalista Revolucionario (MNR), a political party which fought the Bolivian National Revolution in the Bolivian Congress as well as in the streets to liberate the working masses from the social and economic slavery imposed on them for many decades by an oligarchy composed of owners of very large tin mines and huge landed estates. As leader of the MNR he played an essential role in the unfolding of the Bolivian National Revolution.

Víctor Paz Estenssoro Joseph C. Holtey, 2020-06-30 DESCRIPTION OF THE BOOK This second edition of a study of the life of Víctor Paz Estenssoro continues to be divided into two parts: the first half of the book consists of a biography of Paz up to his death in 2001; the second half, in the Appendix, is his autobiography up to 1973 in the form of Paz's own narrative presented here as a transcribed text of 12 hours of tape-recorded interviews conducted by Dr. Holtey in that year in La Paz, Bolivia. This new edition has additional information, particularly in the chapter on Villarroel, and is rewritten in parts. This book records the life and career of Paz during the years he led the social and economic revolution that transformed his homeland into a modern nation state. He was the leader of the Movimiento Nacionalista Revolucionario (MNR), a political party which fought the Bolivian National Revolution in the Bolivian Congress as well as in the streets to liberate the working masses from the social and economic slavery imposed on them for many decades by an oligarchy composed of owners of very large tin mines and huge landed estates. This current book includes the texts of interviews with Hugo López Ávila in 1973 and with Hernán Siles Zuazo in 1974 in Buenos Aires, Argentina.

The Fat Man from La Paz: Contemporary Fiction from Bolivia Rosario Santos, 2005-09 This most extensive collection of Bolivian literature ever published in English offers stories from the last 50 years that are remarkable for their eloquence, vitality, and humor.

South of La Paz North of Asuncion G. E. Hofmann, 2010-07 A Foreign Service employee is serving out his last assignment in a quiet country far from the center of empire and the approach of 1984. His work seems of little consequence to anyone and therefore of little harm. A fate Jack can live with. An unlikely friend and native tribesman named Santos Ibar has more important work. His is the work of life and death. In the manner of people who cling to the land of their ancestors and have no empire to bring them wealth or leisurely lives. Rather the opposite. Santos is branded a smuggler and 'enemy of the people'. But not by his own. Jack is branded many things. Mostly by his own. Among them charges of failed duty and questionable loyalty in a growing conflict. A conflict fueled mostly by protagonists in his own government. In the end his life and work comes to be defined by a native proverb; All your friends are false, all your enemies are true.
