Cat Town Sakutarō Hagiwara, 2014-11-11 Modernist poet Sakutarō Hagiwara's first published book, Howling at the Moon, shattered conventional verse forms and transformed the poetic landscape of Japan. Two of its poems were removed on order of the Ministry of the Interior for "disturbing social customs." Along with the entirety of Howling, this volume includes all of Blue Cat, Hagiwara's second major collection, together with Cat Town, a prose-poem novella, and a substantial selection of verse from the rest of his books, giving readers the full breadth and depth of this pioneering poet's extraordinary work.

Alchemy and Chemistry in the 16th and 17th Centuries Piyo Rattansi, Antonio Clericuzio, 1994-08-31 The present volume owes its origin to a Colloquium on Alchemy and Chemistry in the Sixteenth and Seventeenth Centuries, held at the Warburg Institute on 26th and 27th July 1989. The Colloquium focused on a number of selected themes during a closely defined chronological interval: on the relation of alchemy and chemistry to medicine, philosophy, religion, and to the corpuscular philosophy, in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. The relations between Medicina and alchemy in the Lullian treatises were examined in the opening paper by Michela Pereira, based on researches on unpublished manuscript sources in the period between the 14th and 17th centuries. It is several decades since the researches of R.F. Multhauf gave a prominent role to Johannes de Rupescissa in linking medicine and alchemy through the concept of a quinta essentia. Michela Pereira explores the significance of the Lullian tradition in this development and draws attention to the fact that the early Paracelsians had themselves recognized a family resemblance between the works of Paracelsus and Roger Bacon's scientia experimentalis and, indeed, a continuity with the Lullian tradition.

Vismans, 2023-09-15 This book is a collection of studies about forms of address in the world's languages, with a focus on contrast and difference. The individual chapters highlight inter- and intralinguistic variation in the expression of address and its sociocultural functions across media, registers, geographical contexts and time – in more than 15 languages. The volume showcases the variety of approaches that exists in current address research, including the breadth of contrastive methodologies harnessing surveys and questionnaires, focus group discussions, corpus linguistics, discourse and conversation analysis to offer complementary perspectives on culture-specific address practice. This volume is for students and researchers of address and social interaction in a range of disciplines in the humanities and social sciences, including various sub-disciplines of linguistics (such as contrastive, variational and intercultural pragmatics, sociolinguistics, and morphology) and intercultural communication, as well as experts in individual languages and qualitative sociologists.

Biblical Perspectives on the Book of Ruth Cornwell

Piyo,2016-12-01 The book of Ruth is one of the shortest books of the Bible. It is a unique book in that, it is one of the two books that bears a female name. But most importantly, the book is filled with great and amazing themes that manifests God's sovereign grace in times of need. Ruth found favor in God's eyes despite that her origin was the accursed land of Moab, but through divine providence, grace found her and brought her to a land of opportunities that made up for her failed life, failed chances and failed past. in this book, Dr. Cornwell Piyo shares with you how you too can position yourself to receive God's favor in a hopeless world where despair and spiritual confusion is the order of the day. Those who wait upon the Lord will never be ashamed.

Bonobo and Chimpanzee Takeshi Furuichi, 2019-11-22 This book describes the similarities and differences between two species, bonobos and chimpanzees, based on the three decades the author has spent studying them in the wild, and shows how the contrasting nature of these two species is also reflected in human nature. The most important differences between bonobos and chimpanzees, our closest relatives, are the social mechanisms of coexistence in group life. Chimpanzees are known as a fairly despotic species in which the males exclusively dominate over the females, and maintain a rigid hierarchy. Chimpanzees have developed social intelligence to survive severe competition among males: by upholding the hierarchy of dominance, they can usually preserve peaceful relations among group members. In contrast, female bonobos have the same or even a higher social status than males. By evolving pseudo-estrus during their non-reproductive period, females have succeeded in moderating inter-male sexual competition, and in initiating mate selection. Although they are non-related in male-philopatric society, they usually aggregate in a group, enjoy priority access to food, determine which male is the alpha male, and generally maintain much more peaceful social relations compared to chimpanzees. Lastly, by identifying key mechanisms of social coexistence in these two species, the author also seeks to find solutions or “hope” for the peaceful coexistence of human beings. Takeshi Furuichi is one of very few scientists in the world familiar with both chimpanzees and bonobos. In lively prose, reflecting personal experience with apes in the rain forest, he compares our two closest relatives and explains the striking differences between the male-dominated and territorial chimpanzees and the female-centered gentle bonobos. Islam, Sufism and Everyday Politics of Belonging in South Asia Deeptra Dandekar, Torsten Tschacher, 2016-09-13 This book looks at the study of ideas, practices and institutions in South Asian Islam, commonly identified as 'Sufism', and how they relate to politics in South Asia. While the importance of Sufism for the lives of South Asian Muslims has been repeatedly asserted, the specific role played by Sufism in contestations over social and political belonging in South Asia has not yet been fully analysed. Looking at examples from five countries in South Asia (India, Pakistan, Bangladesh, Sri Lanka, and Afghanistan), the book begins with a detailed introduction to political concerns over 'belonging' in relation to questions concerning Sufism and Islam in South Asia. This is followed with sections on Producing and Identifying Sufism; Everyday and Public Forms of Belonging; Sufi Belonging, Local and National; and Intellectual History and Narratives of Belonging. Bringing together scholars from diverse disciplines, the book explores the connection of Islam, Sufism and the Politics of Belonging in South Asia. It is an important contribution to South Asian Studies, Islamic Studies and South Asian Religion.

Shadows in the Field Gregory F. Barz, Timothy J. Cooley, 2008-09-09 Ethnomusicological fieldwork has significantly changed since the end of the 20th century. Ethnomusicology is in a critical moment that requires new perspectives on fieldwork - perspectives that are not addressed in the standard guides to ethnomusicological or anthropological method. The focus in ethnomusicological writing and teaching has traditionally centered around analyses and ethnographic representations of musical cultures, rather than on the personal world of understanding, experience, knowing, and doing fieldwork. Shadows in the Field deliberately shifts the focus of ethnomusicology and of ethnography in general from representation (text) to experience (fieldwork). The new fieldwork moves beyond mere data collection and has become a defining characteristic of ethnomusicology that engages the scholar in meaningful human contexts. In this new edition of Shadows in the Field, renowned ethnomusicologists explore the roles they themselves act out while performing fieldwork and pose significant questions for the field: What are the new directions in ethnomusicological fieldwork? Where does fieldwork of the past fit into these theories? And above all, what do we see when we acknowledge the shadows we cast in the field? The second edition of Shadows in the Field includes updates of all existing chapters, a new preface by Bruno Nettl, and seven new chapters addressing critical issues and concerns that have become increasingly relevant since the first edition.

Perspectives on the Book of Judges Cornwell

Piyo, 2016-10-31 The book of Judges is a very unique book, filled with theological content. God's desire for Israel was that, Israel should worship and serve the Lord and rid itself of idolatry and faithfully follow the Lord and His given principles and laws. The book of Judges thus presents to us a gloomy picture of Israel's spirituality as it constantly forsook the Lord and went after strange gods. Several cycles of sin, judgment, repentance and salvation are replete in the book. The author of this series on Biblical Perspectives takes us a little further into the book, helping the contemporary believer understand God's will, plan and purpose for the Church in this generation. Drawing from his over three decades of pastoral ministry, Dr. Cornwell Piyo brings the message of Judges to life as he seeks to lead us into a deeper understanding of the purposes of God for our lives. It is time for restoration, renewal and revival among God's people. Unless the church looks honestly at itself and have self-examination, the church will remain lethargic and formal, seeking the good of the world as its intended goal. However, God calls us to higher life and higher purposes. When leaders of churches fail to lead their people into God centred purposes, the people lead themselves in worldliness. The book of Judges tells us that there was no king in Israel and everyone did what was right in his own eyes. Likewise, when the church dethrones the King Jesus with its numerous programs and activities that does not bring glory to God, we are the same with ancient Israel, weakening and compromising our spiritual relationship with God. This book is a challenge and a call to spiritual renewal among God's people. With a pastoral passion, the author challenges us to fan our relationship with God and turn away from worthless things. Our mission and focus should be God and His will for us. Will you heed his call to worship and serve him only? Will you give him the pre-eminence in your life?

And so, the fragile peace achieved over the last century begins to writhe, like a horror released from Pandora's forbidden box...
