Stand-Up Pouch Story Eliseo Fatica,2021-06-02 A stand-up pouch, also known as Doypack (a trademark associated with the pouch), is a type of flexible packaging which can stand erect on its bottom for display, storage, and use. It is a type of plastic bag but sometimes also has plastic bottle characteristics. Doypacks are commonly used for powders or ready-to-drink beverages. The bottom part of a stand-up pouch is gusseted to provide support for display or use. Stand-up pouches are part of a $5 billion (and growing) market in the U.S., Canada, and Mexico. Initially, they were only an option for the big boys like Nestlé and Procter & Gamble. David Marinac launched StandUpPouches.net as a way for smaller companies to take advantage of this unique and compelling retail packaging, as well as for larger firms to test new pouches. This is the absorbing, behind-the-scenes story of how he built StandUpPouches.net into the leading online brand for flexible packaging. His company now sells over ten million pouches annually, with sales doubling year after year.
