Participatory rangeland and grassland assessment (PRAGA) methodology Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations,International Union for Conservation of Nature,2022-09-08 This participatory grassland and rangeland assessment (PRAGA) methodology was developed for the assessment of rangelands and grasslands in selected project countries. It was developed through the project “Participatory assessment of land degradation and sustainable land management in grassland and pastoral systems”, financed by the Global Environment Facility (GEF) and executed by the Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations (FAO) and the International Union for Conservation of Nature (IUCN). The methodology was piloted in five countries – Burkina Faso, Kenya, Kyrgyzstan, Niger and Uruguay – to test its effectiveness and value. Necessary revisions were made to the methodology, based on lessons learned from its application. This document contains background information on global grasslands and rangelands and describes the need and the guiding principle for rangeland health assessments and practical guidance on how to conduct cost-effective assessment. It is divided into two parts: Part I: Background information on grasslands and rangelands Part II: Guidance for the preparation, assessment and monitoring of grasslands and rangelands at the local level The methodology has been designed with enough flexibility to adapted to specific contexts and countries along the nine steps laid out in the document.

Application of the participatory rangeland and grassland assessment (PRAGA) methodology in Kyrgyzstan Sharpe, N., Mwangi, P., Isakov, A., Onyango, V.,2022-09-29 As rangelands support one-seventh of the world’s population and occupy one-third of its land area, there is increasing focus on their economic, environmental and nutritional roles together with a growing understanding of their potential in climatic regulatory systems and biodiversity conservation. However, rangelands and grasslands are complex, dynamic systems, which make assessment and management difficult given the many interacting biophysical elements, drivers and objectives of those that use them. Facilitating and developing tools to monitor rangeland and grassland complexity and clearly demonstrate how management influences ecosystem processes is an important component of improving rangeland management practices, regulatory systems and economic development. The project “Participatory assessment of land degradation and sustainable land management in grassland and pastoral systems”, funded by the Global Environment Facility (GEF), was developed with the primary objective of strengthening the capacity of local and national stakeholders in pastoral and agropastoral areas comprising of grasslands and rangelands to assess land degradation (LD) and make informed decisions to promote sustainable land management (SLM) in a way that preserves the diverse ecosystem goods and services provided by rangelands and grasslands. This report represents a synthesis of activities in development and testing of the participatory rangeland and grassland (PRAGA) methodology in Kyrgyzstan, including a national and regional baseline review, large-scale assessment & remote sensing, participatory mapping and indicator selection, field assessment results and validation workshops held to verify data and resulting conclusions that feed into next steps and technical and policy recommendations.

Magic Prague Angelo Maria Ripellino, 1995 Attempting to go beyond the cliché of Prague as the golden city, this book brings out all its mystery, ambiguity, gloom, lethargy and hidden fascination. More than a literary and cultural history of Prague, this book seeks to be both a celebration and requiem for an oppressed culture.

Testament in Prague Teresa Pàmies, Tomàs Pàmies, 2005 This translation of the original Catalan text by Teresa Pàmies and her father, Tomas, combines the father's memoirs with the author's letters written to him after his death. Born into a modest farming family, Tomas' political activism led to him fleeing Spain and joining Teresa in Prague. This work received the Josep Pla literary prize because of its interdisciplinary scope in literature, history, social sciences, and cultural studies especially as they relate to Communist Party issues in Prague in 1968. The memoirs and his daughter's reflections offer a narrative history of Spain and Catalonia during the first half of this century, including the Second Republic, the Civil War, the Franco dictatorship and exile, and is the first English translation of Pàmies' works.--BOOK JACKET.
