Raytheon Company Alan R. Earls, Robert E. Edwards, 2005 Raytheon's history is one of the great American success stories. Launched in 1922, the Cambridge-based company quickly moved to the forefront of innovation in the electronics industry. During World War II, thousands of Raytheon workers contributed to the war effort, supplying eighty percent of the magnetron tubes (vital components for U.S. and British radars), developing miniature tubes for the crucial proximity fuse in anti-aircraft shells, and providing entire radar systems. Although government contracts slowed after World War II, Raytheon continued to develop military components, including leading-edge radars and missiles for America's defenses in the Cold War, but it also began to offer a host of civilian products: the famous RadaRange (the world's first microwave oven), televisions, marine radars, transistors, miniature hearing aids, and medical equipment.

The Raytheon DB-110 Sensor: Four Cameras in One Package, 1999 Raytheon has designed, manufactured, and flight-tested a new reconnaissance system. The Raytheon DB-110 reconnaissance system is effectively four sensors in one, utilizing simultaneous visible and infrared focal plane assemblies with selectable long-range or short-range optics. This capability permits reconnaissance missions to be conducted from very short range to long range by day or night. This paper reviews the design objectives, system characteristics and example flight test imagery from the Raytheon DB-110 system.

Staring 256 X 256 LWIR Focal Plane Array Performance of the Raytheon Exoatmospheric Kill Vehicle, 1998 As part of the Exoatmospheric Kill Vehicle (EKV) Exoatmospheric Flight Test (EFT), the Raytheon Infrared Center of Excellence (RIR CoE) has produced many high performance LWIR focal plane arrays (FPAs) for use in interceptor flight tests scheduled 1999. Each of the two LWIR FPAs per EKV consists of a single 256 x 256 S-117 readout multiplexer hybridized to a LWIR or VLWIR detector and mounted to a ceramic / beryllium module assembly. Flexible kapton cables with fine line constantan conductors provide electrical interconnections to the near-FPA Sensor Electronics. To date the RIR COE has delivered a sufficient quantity of Detector Module Assemblies to support the successful Seeker Flight Test conducted on 16 January 1998, and Exoatmospheric Flight Tests scheduled in 1999. The LWIR detectors are 30 um x 30 um in size and arranged in a 256 x 256 array format. The liquid phase epitaxy (LPE) double layer heterojunction (DLHJ) detectors are designed to provide optimized cutoff wavelengths and performance characteristics for each of the two IR spectral bands that are utilized for target detection and discrimination. Both IR FPAs provide near theoretical performance characteristics and are cooled using LN2 to facilitate a rapid, in-flight cool down to the operating temperature of 70K. The cryo-CMOS multiplexer utilizes a high charge capacity, direct injection (DI) unit cell with on-FPA background subtraction for ultra-high radiometric performance. The 256 x 256 unit cells are multiplexed onto two outputs, each operating at a 2.0 MHz data rate. These FPAs have excellent responsivity and response uniformity, near-theoretical noise equivalent irradiance (NEI) and outstanding operability. In addition, these FPAs have been produced in sufficient quantities to support the demanding schedule requirements of multiple, near-term launches throughout 1999.

Active Structural Acoustic Control of Interior Noise on a Raytheon 1900d National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA),2018-08-27 An active structural acoustic control system has been demonstrated on a Raytheon Aircraft Company 1900D turboprop airliner. Both single frequency and multi-frequency control of the blade passage frequency and its harmonics was accomplished. The control algorithm was a variant of the popular filtered-x LMS implemented in the principal component domain. The control system consisted of 21 inertial actuators and 32 microphones. The actuators were mounted to the aircraft's ring frames. The microphones were distributed uniformly throughout the interior at head height, both seated and standing. Actuator locations were selected using a combinatorial search optimization algorithm. The control system achieved a 14 dB noise reduction of the blade passage frequency during single frequency tests. Multi-frequency control of the first 1st, 2nd and 3rd harmonics resulted in 10.2 dB, 3.3 dB and 1.6 dB noise reductions respectively. These results fall short of the predictions which were produced by the optimization algorithm (13.5 dB, 8.6 dB and 6.3 dB). The optimization was based on actuator transfer functions taken on the ground and it is postulated that cabin pressurization at flight altitude was a factor in this discrepancy.
