Red Tornado Football Cecil Eugene Reinke,2008 This is the story of one of the most remarkable teams in the history of Clinton, Oklahoma, High School football, the Red Tornadoes of 1949. This was the first team in the history of Clinton High School, which began playing football in 1919, to earn an undefeated regular season, with wins over Elk City, El Reno, Hollis, Mangum, Frederick, Weatherford, Midwest City, Hobart, and Altus. It was the first Clinton team to qualify for the Oklahoma State football championship playoffs. The team won its quarterfinal game, defeating Lawton, Oklahoma, and lost in the semifinals, to Oklahoma City Capital Hill High School, the eventual state champion. This is the team that started the winning tradition of Clinton High School football teams, widely spoken of throughout the State of Oklahoma as the Tornado Tradition. Carrying forward the tradition started by this team, the Red Tornadoes have amassed one of the best high school football records in the nation, including the winning of fourteen Oklahoma State football class championships.

Omaha's Easter Tornado of 1913 Travis Linn Sing, 2003 On Sunday, March 23, 1913, the burgeoning city of Omaha, Nebraska, fell victim to one of the worst tornado disasters in American history. Downtown was spared, but the fashionable neighborhoods of the city's western fringe and the ethnic neighborhoods of north Omaha were destroyed. Over 100 lives were lost, and millions of dollars in property damage was done. Photographers descended upon Omaha, rendering astonishing images of the storm's aftermath. This book uses nearly 200 of those photographs, many of which are drawn from the Durham Western Heritage Museum archives, to document the tornado's path of destruction, as well as stories of survival, compassion, reconstruction, and the remarkable unity and resilience of the Omaha community.

Reshaping the Tornado Belt Kelly Kramlich, Nancy Godon, Vincent Godon, 2011-01-07 When a devastating tornado hit Grand Forks and East Grand Forks on June 16, 1887, nobody saw it coming. Even the United States Signal Service believed there was a northern limit for tornadoes in the United States. The frontier towns of Grand Forks and East Grand Forks were located about seventy-five miles north of Fargo, which was thought to be at the northern tip of the Tornado Belt. Leaders of each town proudly claimed that their communities did not have to worry about the destructive power of tornadoes. The tornado of 1887 changed everything. Reshaping the Tornado Belt discusses: How Grand Forks and East Grand Forks evolved What happened when country schoolhouses were blown across the prairie with teachers and students trapped inside What the two shattered towns had to do in the aftermath of the tornado to rebuild their communities Eyewitness accounts of the tornado as it traveled twenty miles Full of maps and figures and painstakingly researched by three weather professionals, Reshaping the Tornado Belt tells an important story about how a horrific tornado challenged and reshaped two communities and changed how the world looks at tornadoes.
