Madame le Professeur Jo Burr Margadant,2019-01-15 A collective biography of France's first generation of female secondary schoolteachers, this book examines the conflict between their public and private lives and places their new professional standing within the political culture of the Third Republic. Jo Burr Margadant charts the responses of women who attended the normal school of Sevres during the 1880s to their roles as teachers and subordinates in the public school system, their plight as outsiders in the social community, and their gains toward educational reforms. These women emerge as pioneers struggling to forge careers in an elite profession, which was separate and inferior to its male equivalent and also controlled by men. Margadant explains that the first women teacher in girls' colleges and lycees were expected to project an intellectually assertive presence in the classroom while maintaining a maternal solicitude toward students and a modest, self-effacing style with superiors. Many who succeeded progressed to administrative jobs and, in some cases, filled official posts left vacant by men during the First World War. The author shows how these achievements led to the transformations of girls' secondary schools into replicas of those for boys and to equal treatment for women and men in the teaching profession. Jo Burr Margadant is Lecturer in History at Santa Clara University. Originally published in 1990. The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print-on-demand technology to again make available previously out-of-print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press. These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions. The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905.

Race, Class, and Gender in "Medieval" Cinema L. Ramey,T. Pugh,2007-02-19 The medieval film genre is not, in general, concerned with constructing a historically accurate past, but much analysis nonetheless centers on highlighting anachronisms. This book aims to help scholars and aficionados of medieval film think about how the re-creation of an often mythical past performs important cultural work for modern directors and viewers. The essays in this collection demonstrate that directors intentionally insert modern preoccupations into a setting that would normally be considered incompatible with these concepts. The Middle Ages provide an imaginary space far enough removed from the present day to explore modern preoccupations with human identity.

Devotion to a Community Lefranc Guerin,2012-02-27 The three devoted families had the same ambitions and followed the same path. They have many things in common, but the best one is the devotion they have to God. The devotees abandoned a several activities to observe the Gods commandments. The family of Saladin Guerin, Anderson Monfleury, and Morris Charles had a great attachment to each other, as well, a great devotion to their community. In the Town of Spring Hill Valley, where they lived, they gathered in their community to help the needy people when it was required. The three families were a prosperous group that always tried to understand the problem of each other. They lay gathering their thoughts together and gathered themselves for a tremendous leap. With their devotion to the community, it implied to bring widely scattered things or people to one place but with no particular arrangement. To gather three families in a lonely group, they must have the same ambitions as well as the same devotion. Saladin, Anderson, and Morris were the three families who had the same vision by sharing the similar location, religions, and other attribute. The devotees lived near each other and had a one common interest. Specifically, Saladin Guerin was the one who devoted his life in the religious observance or prayer 100%. With the real love he had for God, he became the church clerk. His performance had promoted him to be assistance manager.

Jewels from History Yahya Mubashar,2016-09-30 Biographies of significant personalities in history are important for one's self learning and character building. People can learn from the mistakes in history and also can connect to their past and their roots. These inspiring stories not only introduce but also pass down Islamic values and accounts to our future generations in order to build their character on the footsteps of the noble, virtuous and exemplary characters of these great Muslim personalities in the history of Islamic civilization. They remain the best role models for us and while bringing up children in the west, it is hard to find such information in the curriculum of schools. These stories are spread over the eight hundred years of the Golden Age of Islam and Muslim civilization. They are chosen for their contribution to either their own people or their significant role in stabilizing their empire hence providing periods of prosperity, growth and development for Muslim society. The articles are not meant to be a full account of the biographies of these great Muslim leaders. They simply highlight good and inspiring aspects of their personalities.
