American Machinist , 1909

Alberto Santos-Dumont Michel Bénichou, 2006

Alberto Santos-Dumont occupe une place considérable dans l'histoire de l'aviation. Ce Brésilien avec des origines françaises et portugaises, parisien d'adoption, compta plus d'échecs que de réussites et se contenta de voler, le plus souvent, dans le 'périmètre très restreint du bois de Boulogne, aux portes de Paris.

Pourtant, il fut le premier à concevoir et faire voler avec succès des ballons dirigeables à moteur à pistons et fut le premier en Europe à réussir le décollage d'un aéroplane. Par ailleurs, ses mésaventures aussi spectaculaires que ses succès lui valurent une célébrité sans précédent dans le monde entier ; la publicité accordée à ses expériences galvanisa la recherche aéronautique et contribua sans aucun doute à faire de la France le berceau de l'aviation. Cet ouvrage fait revivre ce petit homme nerveux qui savait fort bien se mettre en scène et ranime son époque, sur les traces de Zéphyrin Brioché (le savant Cosinus), dans la rumeur des quadrilles d'Offenbach ou des foules aussi aristocratiques que populaires venues admirer le Brésilien téméraire jusqu'à la brusque interruption de cette fresque joyeuse. Ce récit vivant, déroulé de manière aussi haletante que l'était la vie de Santos-Dumont (qui pensait, concevait, essayait toujours tout à toute vitesse), est agrémenté des citations de journalistes contemporains ou de témoins, parfois grandiloquents, ainsi que d'illustrations peu connues provenant des archives du musée de l'Air et de l'Espace (photos, caricatures, autographes...) dont certaines sont montrées ici pour la première fois.

My Airships Alberto Santos-Dumont, 2002-12 Brazilian born, French educated, Alberto Santos-Dumont was probably one of only a few aviation pioneers who could claim significant accomplishments in both lighter-than-air and heavier-than-air flying machines. He was the first man to succeed, not once but time after time, in leaving the ground, flying through the air to a place of his own choosing, and landing safely. Around the turn of the century he was the most prominent of all the early aviators, and his balloons, dirigibles and (later in his career) heavier-than-air craft were frequently to be seen in the air around his beloved city of Paris. His early experiments were in dirigible airships of his own design. After many failures, he built a dirigible that in 1901 won the Deutsch Prize, as well as a prize from the Brazilian government, for being the first to fly in a given time from Saint-Cloud to the Eiffel Tower and return. He wrote My Airships when he was 30 years old, in 1904. In it he tells of his childhood in Brazil, his early fascination with machinery and passion for the novels of Jules Verne, his early success in France as an enthusiastic automobilist, his first balloon ascent in 1893, his famous balloon Brazil, and the joys and trials of his first ten dirigibles (1898-1904). Referring to himself as inventor, patron, manufacturer, amateur, mechanic and airship captain all united, he describes numerous hair-raising scrapes with death while navigating the air. Santos' reputation as an airplane designer was solidified by a machine he produced in 1909. The famous Demoiselle or Grasshopper monoplane, was the forerunner of the modern light plane. Santos eventually returned to Brazil where, depressed over the use of aircraft in war, he committed suicide.

abstract the synopsis of my classification of the angiospermae that was published in aliso
thorne 1968 has been

years increased knowledge about many of the families has
