Smart Eyes of Poker Dee Alessandra,2010-02 After numerous eye operations, Harry Owens is left with an intriguing side effect. It's not headaches, or nausea, or lightheadedness, it's the uncanny ability to see through paper the thickness of a playing card. What to do? Honestly, what would you do, gentle reader? Would it be morally, ethically, legally wrong to use what modern medicine built into your psyche? Harry has a dilemma....indeed, an awesome puzzle. To be able to see what card playing opponents are holding and what cards the dealer is tossing around a table is a breathtaking burden. Can Harry do it and keep his affliction under wraps? Should he use his new found powers or should he avoid the casino tables and remain a retired maintenance man who leads a humdrum existence of traveling aimlessly to the usual tourist spots? Seriously, what would you do?

A Smart Eye in China R. Thomas Berner, 2013-09-02 I have been very lucky to have taught in China twice and visited five other times and the reason I've more than gladly returned is the people. The Chinese are welcoming and non-judgmental people. They accept you as you are; they ignore your faults. I've been in China twice when our governments were clashing and the people of China greeted me warmly even when other Chinese were trashing our embassy in Beijing or dismantling one of our planes on Hainan Island. Over the years I've developed several good relationships. Chinese have visited me in the United States and I have had several happy reunions with old friends in China. My affection grows deeper with each visit. After my first visit, several people suggested that I write a book about China. I never felt I knew enough about China to write a book, but after seven visits and 10,000 photographs I am ready to produce a book of my photographs. I've tried to avoid cliché photographs. I have seemingly millions of photos of people riding bicycles and (fewer) of people watching television in a department store. You've seen those photos in newspapers. I wanted, instead, to present original images that show my affection for the people and their culture. My calligraphy teacher, who always looked at my recent photographs of China on my computer after each calligraphy lesson, told me that I had “smart eyes,” hence the book’s title. I hope you enjoy the images.

Intelligent Computing and Innovation on Data Science Sheng-Lung Peng, Sun-Yuan Hsieh, Suseendran Gopalakrishnan, Balaganesh Duraisamy, 2021-09-27 This book gathers high-quality papers presented at 2nd International Conference on Technology Innovation and Data Sciences (ICTIDS 2021), organized by Lincoln University, Malaysia from 19 – 20 February 2021. The book brings together works from researchers, scientists, engineers, scholars and students in the areas of engineering and technology, and provides an opportunity for the dissemination of original research results, new ideas, research and development, practical experiments, which concentrate on both theory and practices, for the benefit of common man.

Passive Eye Monitoring Riad I. Hammoud, 2008-02-01 This groundbreaking resource offers a comprehensive overview of cutting-edge video-based eye monitoring algorithms, as well as human factor algorithms and experiments. Helping to apply the skills in Intelligent Human Machine Interaction (IHMI), this practical reference shows how the core low-level building blocks are implemented and how they are linked with human factor algorithms and human-machine interfaces (HMI) in smart vehicles, sensitive environments and medical facilities.

The Psychology of Driving on Rural Roads Gert Weller, 2010-07-07 Rural roads constitute the most dangerous road category with regard to the number of fatal accidents. In order to increase traffic safety on rural roads it is necessary to take into account not only their inherent properties but also their effect on behaviour. Gert Weller develops a psychological model for driving on rural roads which is validated in three empirical steps: laboratory, simulator and driving experiments. His results provide insight into the possibilities of how driving behaviour on rural roads can be influenced and give practical guidance for the enhancement of rural road safety. The book is written for psychologists in the fields of traffic psychology and human factors research, traffic engineers, road planners as well as for political decision makers in traffic planning departments.

Human-Computer Interaction Masaaki Kurosu, Ayako Hashizume, 2023-07-08 The four-volume set LNCS 14011, 14012, 14013, and 14014 constitutes the refereed proceedings of the Human Computer Interaction thematic area of the 25th International Conference on Human-Computer Interaction, HCII 2023, which took place in Copenhagen, Denmark, in July 2023. A total of 1578 papers and 396 posters have been accepted for publication in the HCII 2023 proceedings from a total of 7472 submissions. The papers included in the HCI 2023 volume set were organized in topical sections as follows: Part I: Design and evaluation methods, techniques and tools; interaction methods and techniques; Part II: Children computer interaction; emotions in HCI; and understanding the user experience; Part III: Human robot interaction; chatbots and voice-based interaction; interacting in the metaverse; Part IV: Supporting health, quality of life and everyday activities; HCI for learning, culture, creativity and societal impact.

Human-Computer Interaction - INTERACT 2009 Tom Gross, Jan Gulliksen, Paula Kotzé, Lars Oestreicher, Philippe Palanque, Raquel Oliveira Prates, Marco Winckler, 2009-08-06 INTERACT 2009 was the 12th of a series of INTERACT international conferences supported by the IFIP Technical Committee 13 on Human-Computer Interaction. This year, INTERACT was held in Uppsala (Sweden), organized by the Swedish Interdisciplinary Interest Group for Human-Computer Interaction (STIMDI) in cooperation with the Department of Information Technology at Uppsala University. Like its predecessors, INTERACT 2009 highlighted, both to the academic and to the industrial world, the importance of the human-computer interaction (HCI) area and its most recent breakthroughs on current applications. Both experienced HCI researchers and professionals, as well as newcomers to the HCI field, interested in designing or evaluating interactive software, developing new interaction technologies, or investigating overarching theories of HCI, found in INTERACT 2009 a great forum for communication with people of similar interests, to encourage collaboration and to learn. INTERACT 2009 had Research and Practice as its special theme. The reason we selected this theme is that the research within the field has drifted away from the practical applicability of its results and that the HCI practice has come to disregard the knowledge and development within the academic community.
