Provenience Studies and Bronze Age Cyprus Arthur Bernard Knapp,John F. Cherry,1994 In the archaeological reconstruction of prehistoric production and exchange systems, the use of provenience techniques has assumed a high profile. The primary aim of such archaeometric work has been the objective identification of non-local materials, and the isolation or elimination of specific stone, metal or clay sources. However, the important step of specifying and examining critically the relationships between archaeological data, human action, analytical results, and cultural interpretation has seldom been taken.

The Essence of Joy Kelsey Jack Wilson Evans, 2017-04-07 TEoJ: Tana Goddess is an album of 184 poems presented in chronological order of creation, each composed on the dates provided, each recorded within one day, most in one sitting, one written by hand, all others typed into a phone, and each one spontaneous; they are poems of free-flowing words which chronicle thoughts and emotions that all together, as a story unfolded and part of the story itself, tell a story within each poem and collectively as an album, the story of a physical, emotional, mental, and spiritual journey.

Formula One: Made In Britain Clive Couldwell, 2012-05-31 Formula One: Made in Britain is one of Formula One's last untold stories. As a centre of technical excellence for over thirty years.

Britain is at the sharp end of the worldwide motor sport industry, and playing ever harder to win. Most of the sport's Grand Prix teams are based in the UK and many of them have British managers and designers who act as a showcase for the UK's skill base - past, present and future. The success of Britain's Formula One industry has gone largely unrecognised outside the close-knit world of the racing aficionado. Now, with Formula One: Made in Britain, Clive Couldwell reveals what makes this industry tick and why many of the world's players choose to come here. He explores Motorsport Valley, an area which covers the south and Midlands of the UK, where 75 per cent of the world's single-seater racing cars are designed and built, and talks to many of F1's leading lights. Winning in F1 depends on innovation and performance-critical engineering, and in this fascinating and insightful book, Clive Couldwell shows how UK research and development are leading the world.

DNA-based markers in plants R.L. Phillips, Indra K. Vasil, 2012-12-06 The double helix architecture of DNA was elucidated in 1953. Twenty years later, in 1973, the discovery of restriction enzymes helped to create recombinant DNA molecules in vitro. The implications of these powerful and novel methods of molecular biology, and their potential in the genetic manipulation and improvement of microbes, plants and animals, became increasingly evident, and led to the birth of modern biotechnology. The first transgenic plants in which a bacterial gene had been stably integrated were produced in 1983, and by 1993 transgenic plants had been produced in all major crop species, including the cereals and the legumes. These remarkable achievements have resulted in the production of crops that are resistant to potent but environmentally safe herbicides, or to viral pathogens and insect pests. In other instances genes have been introduced that delay fruit ripening, or increase starch content, or cause male sterility. Most of these manipulations are based on the introduction of a single gene - generally of bacterial origin - that regulates an important monogenic trait, into the crop of choice. Many of the engineered crops are now under field trials and are expected to be commercially produced within the next few years. The early successes in plant biotechnology led to the realization that further molecular improvement of plants will require a thorough understanding of the molecular basis of plant development, and the identification and characterization of genes that regulate agronomically important multi-genic traits.

Microalgae-Based Systems Eduardo Jacob-Lopes, Rosangela Rodrigues Dias, Leila Queiroz Zepka, 2023-10-04 Process integration and intensification are means to improve the sustainability metrics of the industrial processes, balancing the pillars of economy, environment, and social demand.
