The Corrs Paul Gaster (photographer.),2002 Through the eyes of photographer Paul Gaster, we see firsthand the evolution of the band that has captivated hearts around the world. We follow The Corrs' climb from their first gigs in the clubs of Dublin, played to an audience of friends and well-wishers, through their world tours, to the finale that was their triumphant homecoming concert in front of 42,000 fans at Landsdowne Road, Dublin. This collection, the culmination of a seven-year collaboration between band and photographer, is made up of hundreds of previously unseen photos taken from an archive of thousands. With its accompanying commentary, The Corrs: Corner to Corner offers an intimate portrait of a band and life on the road.

The Corrs Todd Nicholls,2001-09-30 The Corrs have through hard work, musical talent, good looks and more hard work become one of the biggest sensations in the world of music. Now having sold over 20 million albums worldwide, Andrea, Caroline, Sharon and Jim Corr have proven that their success is no flash in the pan and that they are indeed serious musicians. Despite their huge success, until now there has not been a serious objective biography of the Dundalk four. Never before has there been a serious attempt made to try and discover whether the band has any real talent, or whether they are in fact just all marketing hype. The Corrs - Their Music, Their Lives, Their Legacy examines where The Corrs have come from, the reasons why they have been so successful and, perhaps most importantly, what their lasting legacy will be on the music industry in Britain and further afield. This book evaluates some of the criticisms of the band and by taking a biographical approach from a variety of different angles, attempts to put the success of The Corrs into its proper perspective. Included in the book are a number of revelations from close friends of the band members, never before published insights into The Corrs and the secret that the Corr family didn't want the world to know about. This book is also the story of the author's trials and tribulations in researching and writing about The Corrs, the people he came across, the scenery he saw and the society in which he grew to love. It provides yet another interesting insight into the world of The Corrs. Already described as a highly readable and fascinating insight into the biggest band to come out of Ireland in the last 10 years, this book will be a must for all fans of The Corrs this Christmas.

The Irishness of Irish Music John O'Flynn,2017-07-05 This book brings together important material from a range of sources and highlights how government organizations, musicians, academics and commercial companies are concerned with, and seek to use, a particular notion of Irish musical identity. Rooting the study in the context of the recent history of popular, traditional and classical music in Ireland, as well as providing an overview of aspects of the national field of music production and consumption, O'Flynn goes on to argue that the relationship between Irish identity and Irish music emerges as a contested site of meaning. His analysis exposes the negotiation and articulation of civic, ethnic and economic ideas within a shifting hegemony of national musical culture, and finds inconsistencies between and among symbolic constructions of Irish music and observed patterns in the domestic field. More specifically, O'Flynn illustrates how settings, genres, social groups and values can influence individual identifications or negations of Irishness in music. While the apprehension of intra-musical elements leads to perceptions of music that sounds Irish, style and authenticity emerge as critical articulatory principles in the identification of music that feels Irish. The celebratory and homogenizing discourse associated with the international success of some Irish musical forms is not reflected in the opinions of the people interviewed by O'Flynn; at the same time, an insider/outsider dialectic of national identity is found in various forms of discourse about Irish music. Performers and composers discussed include Bill Whelan (Riverdance), Sinéad O'Connor, The Corrs, Altan, U2, Martin Hayes, Dolores Keane and Gerald Barry.
