Stop, It's a Red Light! Veronica Brathwaite, 2012-12 I first got the idea to write this storybook STOP IT'S A RED LIGHT! for children in June 2011. I was motivated with one goal in mind and that is, for all children to be safe when crossing. My objective is to bring a more conscientious safety awareness to your child's mind in order to shield them from dangerous accidents which mostly occur on the road. The book teaches children how to recognize the three safety colors of a traffic light, know their significance and be able to use good judgment when crossing the street. STOP IT'S A RED LIGHT! also creates an interactive discussion between the reader/listener, in providing children with a variety of situations, in which they can use their own cognitive ability, and good judgment, to determine a situation in knowing when it is safe to cross, or when to refrain from crossing the street dangerously. I am sure after purchasing this book and reading it to your child; they will become more safety conscious and patient when crossing streets. This is a book the whole family will enjoy.
