La Plume Volante William Mason,2018-04-25 The 18th century was a wealth of knowledge, exploration and rapidly growing technology and expanding record-keeping made possible by advances in the printing press. In its determination to preserve the century of revolution, Gale initiated a revolution of its own: digitization of epic proportions to preserve these invaluable works in the largest archive of its kind. Now for the first time these high-quality digital copies of original 18th century manuscripts are available in print, making them highly accessible to libraries, undergraduate students, and independent scholars. Western literary study flows out of eighteenth-century works by Alexander Pope, Daniel Defoe, Henry Fielding, Frances Burney, Denis Diderot, Johann Gottfried Herder, Johann Wolfgang von Goethe, and others. School Leadership in the Context of Standards-Based Reform Louis Volante,2012-05-16 “Although standards-based reform emerged in the United States and the United Kingdom, the idea has spread across the world, as an approach to systemic reform. It might appear that there is a world-wide “tsunami” of standards-based reform that will standardize and homogenize the educational system across the globe. This volume makes it very clear, however, that there is no one approach to standards-based reform and countries change – there is a danger in paying attention to its evolution and impact in only one context. That’s what makes this volume so valuable. Louis Volante has drawn together descriptions from a wide range of countries, all involved in large-scale reform and using standards and assessments as part of their process. What becomes very obvious is that the language may be the same but the words reflect different contexts and can represent very different ideals, values, and processes. I’m sure you will find this book as interesting and challenging as I have – a gem that pushes your thinking and does not allow readers to remain neutral.” (Lorna Earl)

Treason Among Us Guido Volante,2012-08 As a broker dealer and Wall Street denizen from the late 50s to the late 80s and equity finance entrepreneur and consultant to this day, Guido Volante has been a victim of the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission's relentless, unwarranted persecution, depriving his employees of jobs, his clients of opportunities, and his family of peace of mind. Volante shows readers that a society is being created where creativity is punished, innovation is discouraged, and the American dream is dying. He hopes to open readers' eyes to see that the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission has conspired to destroy self motivation, stockholder equity, and free enterprise. In the process, they eliminated an entire industry that supported entrepreneurs and shared risk. In this unique commentary on the SEC, with dashes of personal experience, Volante encourages activism among entrepreneurs and capitalists to change the way the government works. Treason Among Us: Secrets of the SEC educates readers and the electorate to reinstate a functioning democratic and constitutional government.

The PISA Effect on Global Educational Governance Louis Volante,2017-09-18 The Program for International Student Assessment (PISA) is an international achievement measure that assesses 15-year-old student performance in the areas of reading, mathematics, and science literacy in over 70 countries and economies triennially. By presenting an in-depth examination of PISA’s role in education governance and policy discourses, this book provides the reader with a critical analysis of the educational change process within our increasingly global educational policy environment. Exploring the prominent socio-political drivers of large-scale educational reform across the globe, chapter authors examine PISA’s national and global implications from a diverse range of regional contexts. Through the presentation of cross-disciplinary viewpoints and topical issues related to the PISA international survey, this volume explains the degree to which PISA-focused research is linked to national educational policy discourses and international education agendas.
