Boule de Suif Guy de Maupassant,2015-05-06 This early work by Guy de Maupassant was originally published in the 1880's. Guy de Maupassant was born in 1850 at the Château de Miromesnil, near Dieppe, France. He came from a prosperous family, but when Maupassant was eleven, his mother risked social disgrace by trying to secure a legal separation from her husband. After the split, Maupassant lived with his mother till he was thirteen, and inherited her love of classical literature. In 1880, Maupassant published his first - and, according to many, his best - short story, entitled 'Boule de Suif' ('Ball of Fat'). It was an instant success. He went on to be extremely prolific during the 1880s, working methodically to produce up to four volumes of short fiction every year. Many of the earliest books, particularly those dating back to the 1900's and before, are now extremely scarce and increasingly expensive. We are republishing these classic works in affordable, high quality, modern editions.

Ball of Fat (Boule de Suif) Guy de Maupassant,2017-11-15 Boule de Suif (translated variously as Dumpling, Butterball, Ball of Fat or Ball of Lard) is a famous short story by the late-19th century French writer Guy de Maupassant. It is arguably his most famous short story and is the title story for his collection on the Franco-Prussian War, entitled Boule de Suif et Autres Contes de la Guerre (Dumpling and Other Stories of the War). The story is set in the Franco-Prussian War and follows a group of French residents of Rouen, recently occupied by the Prussian army. The ten travellers decide, for various reasons, to leave Rouen and flee to Le Havre in a stagecoach. Sharing the carriage are Boule de Suif or Butterball, a prostitute whose real name is Elisabeth Rousset; the strict Democrat Cornudet; a shop-owning couple from the petty bourgeoisie, M. and Mme. Loiseau; a wealthy upper-bourgeoisie factory-owner and his wife, M. and Mme. Carré-Lamadon; the Comte and Comtesse of Bréville; and two nuns. Thus, the carriage constitutes a microcosm of French society, representing different parts of the French population during the late 19th century. Guy de Maupassant (1850-1893) was a popular French writer, considered one of the fathers of the modern short story and one of the form's finest exponents. Maupassant was a protégé of Flaubert and his stories are characterized by economy of style and efficient, effortless dénouements (outcomes). He wrote some 300 short stories, six novels, three travel books, and one volume of verse. His first published story, Boule de Suif (Ball of Fat), is often considered his masterpiece.

BETA Boulé CHRONICLE of 100 YEARS CHICAGO Jesse Brown, 2007 Celebrating the Boulé Centennial On Celebrating e hundred years after six Philadelphia professional men founded Sigma Pi Phi Fraternity, the organization returned to Philadelphia with a cloud of blue-ribbon witnesses, living and dead, a record of 10 decades of achievement, and an expanding vision of an international band of brothers committed to service, brotherhood and excellence. More than 3,000 archons (members) and archousai (wives) attended the Grand Boulé Centennial Celebration, the largest gathering in the history of the fraternity, which is oftentimes called the Boulé, meaning, in fraternity parlance, a council of noblemen. The delegates and attendees, meeting in style in the salons and the grand ballroom of the Marriott Hotel, presented to themselves and to others a telling contrast with the restricted and largely segregated world of 1904 Philadelphia, where on May 15, 1904, a pharmacist, a dentist and two physicians- Henry McKee Minton, Dr. Algernon B. Jackson, Dr. Edwin C. Howard and Dr. Richard J. Warrick- met and announced to themselves, and to others, that a new world was coming. Within two weeks, two more doctors-Robert J. Abele and Eugene T. Hinson-joined, increasing the membership by 50 percent. In 1906 that council of Noblemen grew in number and the second enclave of Noble Black Men emerge in Chicago and that is how Beta Boule begun. This is that story .

An Inventory of Archaic and Classical Poleis Mogens Herman Hansen,Thomas Heine Nielsen,Københavns universitet. Polis centret,2004-11-11 This is the first ever documented study of the 1,035 identifiable Greek city states (poleis) of the Archaic and Classical periods (c.650-325 BC). Previous studies of the Greek polis have focused on Athens and Sparta, and the result has been a view of Greek society dominated by Sophokles', Plato's, and Demosthenes' view of what the polis was. This study includes descriptions of Athens and Sparta, but its main purpose is to explore the history and organization of the thousand other city states. The main part of the book is a regionally organized inventory of all identifiable poleis covering the Greek world from Spain to the Caucasus and from the Crimea to Libya. This inventory is the work of 47 specialists, and is divided into 46 chapters, each covering a region. Each chapter contains an account of the region, a list of second-order settlements, and an alphabetically ordered description of the poleis. This description covers such topics as polis status, territory, settlement pattern, urban centre, city walls and monumental architecture, population, military strength, constitution, alliance membership, colonization, coinage, and Panhellenic victors. The first part of the book is a description of the method and principles applied in the construction of the inventory and an analysis of some of the results to be obtained by a comparative study of the 1,035 poleis included in it. The ancient Greek concept of polis is distinguished from the modern term 'city state', which historians use to cover many other historic civilizations, from ancient Sumeria to the West African cultures absorbed by the nineteenth-century colonializing powers. The focus of this project is what the Greeks themselves considered a polis to be.

The Mystery of the Boule Cabinet Burton E. Stevenson, 2015-06-15 Excerpt from The Mystery of the Boule Cabinet: A Detective Story Hello! I said, as I took down the receiver of my desk 'phone, in answer to the call. Mr. Vantine wishes to speak to you, sir, said the office-boy. All right, and I heard the snap of the connection. Is that you, Lester? asked Philip Vantine's voice. Yes. So you're back again? Got in yesterday. Can you come up to the house and lunch with me to-day? I'll be glad to, I said, and meant it, for I liked Philip Vantine. I'll look for you, then, about one-thirty. And that is how it happened that, an hour later, I was walking over toward Washington Square, just above which, on the Avenue, the old Vantine mansion stood.
