This textbook takes a new approach to the required information systems course for business majors. Sections titled Where You Fit In and Why This Chapter Matters explain how the topics being covered will impact students on the job. Key features: Single-mindedly for business students who are not technical specialists Doesn't try to prepare IS professionals; other courses will do that Stresses the enabling technologies and application areas that matter the most today Based on the author's real-world experience Up to date regarding technology and tomorrow's business needs This is the book the author—and, more importantly, his students—wishes he had when he started teaching. Dr. Mallach holds degrees in engineering from Princeton and MIT, and in business from Boston University. He worked in the computer industry for two decades, as Director of Strategic Planning for a major computer firm and as co-founder/CEO of a computer marketing consulting firm. Topics not usually covered in more specific books are discussed, such as collocation facilities, user communication, and disaster recovery. The focus of this book is how to be a system administrator, not how to administer your system. Jeffrey S. Horwitz has worked with UNIX systems for over eight years, both as a user and an administrator. He has administered a wide range of systems, from single-user workstations to highly tuned enterprise database servers. At the University of Michigan, he managed several campus UNIX services for over 65,000 users. In the ISP world at LaserLink.Net and Covad Communications, he managed over 150 servers providing e-mail, dial-up, and billing services to over 800,000 users across the country. Currently he is the manager of production systems at TargetRx, Inc., where he maintains their entire UNIX infrastructure, having designed and built it from scratch. Jeff holds a B.S in Cellular & Molecular Biology from the University of Michigan, is an active member of Usenix and SAGE, and is a Sun Certified System Administrator.

Rising Above the Gathering Storm Institute of Medicine,National Academy of Engineering,National Academy of Sciences,Committee on Science, Engineering, and Public Policy,Committee on Prospering in the Global Economy of the 21st Century: An Agenda for American Science and Technology,2007-03-08 In a world where advanced knowledge is widespread and low-cost labor is readily available, U.S. advantages in the marketplace and in science and technology have begun to erode. A comprehensive and coordinated federal effort is urgently needed to bolster U.S. competitiveness and pre-eminence in these areas. This congressionally requested report by a pre-eminent committee makes four recommendations along with 20 implementation actions that federal policy-makers should take to create high-quality jobs and focus new science and technology efforts on meeting the nation's needs, especially in the area of clean, affordable energy: 1) Increase America's talent pool by vastly improving K-12 mathematics and science education; 2) Sustain and strengthen the nation's commitment to long-term basic research; 3) Develop, recruit, and retain top students, scientists, and engineers from both the U.S. and abroad; and 4) Ensure that the United States is the premier place in the world for innovation. Some actions will involve changing existing laws, while others will require financial support that would come from reallocating existing budgets or increasing them. Rising Above the Gathering Storm will be of great interest to federal and state government agencies, educators and schools, public decision makers, research sponsors, regulatory analysts, and scholars.
