Colors Belong to Everyone Lawson H. Caldwell, 2004-10-14 When a child is very young they enjoy things without limitations. They choose certain toys to play with because the toys are fun. Youngsters enjoy the company of other children because they like them. Certain colors become favorites because they bring pleasure. As children grow older, outside influences begin to limit their choices. Suddenly they are informed that certain toys are just for boys or just for girls to play with. And in time things such as colors become a part of societys stereotypical limitations. In Colors Belong to Everyone, Timmy and his mother go to the store to buy a book bag for school. The book bag Timmy wishes to buy is pink. The salesperson in the store informs Timmy that pink is a girls color. He encourages Timmy to purchase a book bag that is a boys color such as brown or green. Timmy does not understand because a girl in his school carries a brown book bag and. The salesperson said brown was a boys color and pink is a girls color. Timmy becomes very upset. With tears in his eyes his smiling mother places her hand on his shoulder. She tells Timmy that pink is a very nice color and that she thinks he will enjoy owning a pink book bag. The salesperson makes one last attempt to change their minds. Timmys mother replies by saying, Colors are not assigned to people. Colors belong to everyone. Eventually, boys and girls in Timmys school begin choosing pink for all sorts of things. What a better place the world would be without stereotypical limitations.

The Colorful World of Emily Kiki Charriez, Kiki Charriez Bacon, 2018-09-17
The Colorful World of Emily - The First Day of School is a heartwarming story about a five year old contemplative girl and how she ventures into kindergarten with her curly hair. Excited to start and ready to go, she begins to notice those unique swirls now more than ever. At every turn those messy curls seem to prevent her from making friends in her new school. She internalizes her feelings, after all she's only five and everything is brand new. The once confident Emily begins to question who she is in the world as she realizes how unique she (and everyone else) actually is. Will she ever find a place where she belongs? Kiki Charriez is an honorably discharged veteran of the United States Air Force. Her civilian career began shortly afterwards as a Business Development Sales Manager in NYC. More than anything, her children have always been the catalyst for her inspiration, drive and success. Once becoming a mother of three, she felt the need to become a stay at home mother. Leaving her career wasn't easy but within that timeframe the author within her was discovered. Her goal as a children's book author is to encourage young readers to love, learn and overcome; using her voice in written words to tell an encouraging story. She believes that teaching multiculturalism and diversity creates a society where all children can embrace being themselves; a society where they can feel accepted and accept others around them. A child's future is determined by their beginnings...and she's hoping to be a part of that beginning here. Kiki Charriez lives in The Pocono Mountains of Pennsylvania with her husband Orlando Charriez and their four children Evan, Ethan, Emily and Aiden.

Dancing Through Fields of Color Elizabeth Brown, 2019-03-19 They said only men could paint powerful pictures, but Helen Frankenthaler (1928-2011) splashed her way through the modern art world. Channeling deep emotion, Helen poured paint onto her canvas and danced with the colors to make art unlike anything anyone had ever seen. She used unique tools like mops and squeegees to push the paint around, to dazzling effects. Frankenthaler became an originator of the influential "Color Field" style of abstract expressionist painting with her "soak stain" technique, and her artwork continues to electrify new generations of artists today. Dancing Through Fields of Color discusses Frankenthaler's early life, how she used colors to express emotion, and how she overcame the male-dominated art world of the 1950s.
