Colors Belong to Everyone Lawson H. Caldwell, 2004-10-14 When a child is very young they enjoy things without limitations. They choose certain toys to play with because the toys are fun. Youngsters enjoy the company of other children because they like them. Certain colors become favorites because they bring pleasure. As children grow older, outside influences begin to limit their choices. Suddenly they are informed that certain toys are just for boys or just for girls to play with. And in time things such as colors become a part of society's stereotypical limitations. In Colors Belong to Everyone, Timmy and his mother go to the store to buy a book bag for school. The book bag Timmy wishes to buy is pink. The salesperson in the store informs Timmy that pink is a girl's color. He encourages Timmy to purchase a book bag that is a boy's color such as brown or green. Timmy does not understand because a girl in his school carries a brown book bag and. The salesperson said brown was a boy's color and pink is a girl's color. Timmy becomes very upset. With tears in his eyes his smiling mother places her hand on his shoulder. She tells Timmy that pink is a very nice color and that she thinks he will enjoy owning a pink book bag. The salesperson makes one last attempt to change their minds. Timmys mother replies by saying, Colors are not assigned to people. Colors belong to everyone. Eventually, boys and girls in Timmys school begin choosing pink for all sorts of things. What a better place the world would be without stereotypical limitations.

The Colorful World of Emily - The First Day of School is a heartwarming story about a five year old contemplative girl and how she ventures into kindergarten with her curly hair. Excited to start and ready to go, she begins to notice those unique swirls now more than ever. At every turn those messy curls seem to prevent her from making friends in her new school. She internalizes her feelings, after all she's only five and everything is brand new. The once confident Emily begins to question who she is in the world as she realizes how unique she (and everyone else) actually is. Will she ever find a place where she belongs? Kiki Charriez is an honorably discharged veteran of the United States Air Force. Her civilian career began shortly afterwards as a Business Development Sales Manager in NYC. More than anything, her children have always been the catalyst for her inspiration, drive and success. Once becoming a mother of three, she felt the need to become a stay at home mother. Leaving her career wasn't easy but within that timeframe the author within her was discovered. Her goal as a children's book author is to encourage young readers to love, learn and overcome; using her voice in written words to tell an encouraging story. She believes that teaching multiculturalism and diversity creates a society where all children can embrace being themselves; a society where they can feel accepted and accept others around them. A child's future is determined by their beginnings...and she's hoping to be a part of that beginning here. Kiki Charriez lives in The Pocono Mountains of Pennsylvania with her husband Orlando Charriez and their four children Evan, Ethan, Emily and Aiden.

Mr. Huck's and His Colorful Trucks Stuart F Griffin, 2018-01-04 Can you name the colors of Mr. Huck's Trucks? Children will love learning about the colors and days of the week from this unique book!

My Beautiful Colors Nyibol Bior, 2021-02-24 My Beautiful Colors By: Nyibol Bior When she first walked into an American high school as a substitute teacher, Nyibol Bior was bullied for being black, and My Beautiful Colors was originally a chapter in her autobiography as a section meant to educate the world that she's black for a reason. Sudan means land of the blacks in Arabic, and this region has one of the hottest climates on the planet, so it's no wonder her creator made her black, to ensure her skin color protected her from the sun. She could not just write about how black is beautiful because it is not the only color she's attracted to, and she could not just stick to the trauma that war brought upon her because her presence as an alien in the United States left many curious. Using various colors metaphorically, Nyibol describes the events of the Sudan's Second Civil War, the life that preceded and followed it, along with her vision as a survivor of it. Colors have multiple and opposite meanings, and it's up to her what side of the description she wants to be on, the way it's up to her to treat herself and others with respect and dignity. If the red form of hate is introduced, then she will find a way to make red the color of love before it.

What Color Is Caesar? Maxine Kumin, 2010-02-09 Caesar sets out to discover if he is a white dog with black spots or a black dog with white spots, but asking other black and white creatures only confuses him further.

Our Colorful World Golnar Servatian, 2020-07 Whether you are a flower, a bird, a butterfly, a musical instrument, or a person, we all come in different shapes, sizes, and colors...making our world a colorful and more beautiful place!

Colorful Dreamer Marjorie Blain Parker, 2012-11-08 An inspiring portrait of one of the world's most loved artists There was once a boy named Henri, whose dreams were full of color even though his hometown was dreary and gray. His parents expected him to learn a trade when he grew up, but being a law clerk bored him, and he continued to dream of a colorful, exciting life, and of being noticed. Then Henri started painting . . . and kept painting and dreaming and working at his craft until he'd become one of the most admired and famous artists in the world. This lyrical, visually rich picture book is more than an excellent biography; at its core, this remarkable book is an encouragement to never give up on your dreams.

My Colorful Family LeAnn Mathis, 2016-04-07 Every person is unique. Just like colors. Good on their own, something magical happens when they get together.
