Farmer's bulletin (United States. Dept. of Agriculture). [no. 712-984], [1916-18] ,1916

Cooling Milk and Cream on the Farm J. A. Gamble,1919
Dairymen lose thousands of dollars annually because of poorly cooled milk and cream. These losses occur because the milk or cream is returned by dealers to the farmers, and because of low-grade manufactured products which bring low prices. Every dairyman who produces and delivers a high grade of milk or cream raises the average quality of all milk and cream with which it is pooled, and as a result a better product reaches the consumer. Proper colling is just as important with cream as with milk, especially as cream usually is delivered less frequently and therefore has greater opportunity to undergo undesirable fermentations. Proper cooling is easily done with little additional equipment and labor. Natural ice can be had on the dairy farms that produce 85 per cent of this country's milk and cream supply. Even where ice is not available, milk and cream, by better use of available cooling facilities may be cooled more effectively than at present.--Page 2

Better Use of Man Labor on the Farm A. D. McNair, C. C. Hill, Carrol Tallman More, Charles Dwight Marsh, Charles Ernest Ramser, David Arthur Brodie, Earl Stanley Haskell, Ernest Adna Back, Ernest George Beinhart, Errett Wallace, Fred Eaves Miller, George McMillan Darrow, Harry B. McClure, Howard Ross Tolley, J. A. Gamble, Jacob Hiram Arnold, Joel G. Winkjer, Joseph Stuart Caldwell, M. A. Crosby, Marion Imes, Morgan William Evans, Stockton Mosby McMurren, 1919 Stockmen who graze cattle on the mountain ranges of the western United States suffer heavy losses from larkspur poisoning. Careful and long-continued investigation under range conditions has shown clearly under what conditions these deaths occur and has shown also that by sufficient care most of the losses can be avoided. This bulletin, in a brief form, gives the facts and measures which should be taken to reduce the losses. Bulletin 365 of the United States Department of Agriculture, a professional paper, treats the subject in a more detailed and technical manner.--Page [2]

Research Clifford Hawkins, Marco Sorgi, 2013-03-09 Training for research is only available in a few places in the world, so that usually the researcher has to learn to master every step by himself. This entails planning the research, finding out how to obtain funds, searching the literature, analysing the data statistically, preparing visual material and slides, speaking about it in public, writing it up for journals and so on. Books on various aspects of this subject are readily obtainable but this is an attempt to deal with all the steps that are necessary from the start to the finish, and chapters have been planned sequentially with this in mind. Although most of the authors are doctors of medicine, it should help those in any area of science where the undertaking and publishing of research is important. Marco Sorgi conceived the idea of the book and, during an appointment in the University of Birmingham, invited Clifford Hawkins to help in achieving its delivery. May the effort be found to be worthwhile.
