DIT. Do it together Dennis Storm, 2019-10-21 Met het succesvolle Weg ermee heeft Dennis Storm duizenden geïnspireerd minimalistisch te leven. In het volgende avontuur neemt hij je mee naar de achtertuinen van Bali om te laten zien dat hobby's verre van saai zijn. Iedereen heeft wel een ambacht in de vingers of ergens aanleg voor en je kunt veel meer dan je denkt als je er maar tijd voor vrijmaakt. Bovendien... je hoeft niet alles zelf te kunnen. Waarom 'Do it yourself' als je juist kunt samenwerken met anderen? 'Do it together'! Op Bali heeft Dennis Storm 22 meubels en items gemaakt door samenwerkingen te zoeken met lokale hobbyisten en vakmannen. Het verslag daarvan vind je in woord en beeld terug in DIT: Bali Backyard Building. Sommige projecten zijn laagdrempelig (DIY), voor andere zijn meer dan twee handen nodig (DIT). Maar alles is uitvoerbaar als je er maar tijd en ruimte voor maakt en als je, waar nodig, aanklopt bij mensen die een vaardigheid beheersen die jij misschien (nog) niet in je vingers hebt. Er gaat een creatieve wereld voor je open zodra je niet enkel je eigen talenten maar ook die van je burens, vrienden en familie aanspreekt. Dennis Storm was jarenlang programmamaker en presentator van verschillende reisprogramma's. Hij is een groot liefhebber van design en architectuur en heeft een passie voor minimalisme. In 2018 verscheen zijn succesvolle debuut Weg ermee, over de schoonheid van het minimalisme.

Taking Shelter From the Storm Federal Emergency Management Agency, 2014-08-19 Every year, tornadoes, hurricanes, and other extreme windstorms injure and kill people, and damage millions of dollars worth of property in the United States. Even so, more and more people build houses in tornado- and hurricane-prone areas each year, possibly putting themselves into the path of such storms. Having a shelter, or a safe room, built into your house can help you protect yourself and your family from injury or death caused by the dangerous forces of extreme winds. It can also relieve some of the anxiety created by the threat of an oncoming tornado or hurricane. Should you consider building a shelter in your house to protect yourself and your family during a tornado or hurricane? The answer depends on your answers to many questions, including: - Do you live in a high-risk area? - How quickly can you reach safe shelter during extreme winds? - What level of safety do you want to provide? - What is the cost of a shelter? This guide will help you answer these and other questions so you can decide how best to protect yourself and your family. It includes the results of research that has been underway for more than 20 years, by Texas Tech University's Wind Engineering Research Center (WERC) and other wind engineering research facilities, on the effects of extreme winds on buildings. The guide also provides shelter designs that will show you and your builder/contractor how to construct a shelter underneath a new house, in the basement of a new house, or in an interior room of a new house, or how to modify an existing house to add a shelter in one of these areas. These shelters are designed to protect you and your family from the high winds expected during tornadoes and hurricanes and from flying debris, such as wood studs, that tornadoes and hurricanes usually create. The National Association of Home Builders (NAHB) Research Center has evaluated these designs for construction methods, materials, and costs. Engineers at Texas Tech University have confirmed the design requirements for the expected forces from wind pressure and the impact of typical flying debris. The shelters are designed with life safety as the primary consideration.

The Whispering Roots Cecil Day Lewis, 1970

Chasing the Storm Ron Miller, 2014-03-01 Huge, towering clouds build up in the sky--it's a super cell. The Doppler radar indicates that the system is rotating. But is there a funnel? Is it touching the ground? Only a storm chaser can confirm when a tornado is present--and help meteorologists warn nearby towns. Whenever severe weather threatens, storm chasers hit the road to hunt for tornadoes, hurricanes, or violent storms. Some drive thousands of miles in just a few days as they follow a storm system from Iowa to Texas. Others serve their cities and towns by taking photos from their backyards and phoning in storm details to local weather stations. Specially trained Hurricane Hunters hop into aircraft packed with scientific instruments to fly deep into powerful hurricanes, hoping to reach the eye of the storm. Are storm chasers a bunch of foolish daredevils? Not at all. Many are scientists while others are professional photographers and videographers. Storm chasers arm themselves with training about severe weather, use sophisticated instruments, and follow safety guidelines. In Chasing the Storm, you'll meet real storm chasers and meteorologists, hear their stories, and discover how they do their work. You'll learn tornado basics, get a great window into the science of meteorology, and learn how to pursue a career in the field. You might even decide to become a storm chaser yourself!
