Shorts: Phase 7 #022 & #023 Alec

Longstreth, 2019-02-16 From 2004 to 2012 Alec Longstreth created a dozen short comics for a variety of anthologies. These hard-to-find comics have now been collected in this volume, along with two all-new shorts.

Meanwhile Collab, Qintu, 2020-03-02 The lived realities of young queer people in African contexts are not well documented. On the one hand, homophobic political discourse tends to portray queer people as 'deviant' and 'unAfrican', and on the other, public health research and advocacy often portrays them as victims of violence and HIV. Of course, young queer lives are far more diverse, rich and complex. For this reason, the Qintu Collab was formed to allow young queer people from a few African countries to come together, share experiences and create context-specific, queer-positive media that documents relatable stories about and for queer African youth. We see this as a necessary step in developing a complex archive of queer African life, whilst also personalising queer experiences and challenging prejudicial stereotypes. The Collab is made up of eighteen queer youth from Botswana, Kenya and Zimbabwe, two academics, three artists and a journalist. We first worked in small groups in each country through a range of creative participatory methods that focused on personal reflection and story-telling. Young people created personal timelines, and made visual maps of their bodies, relationships, and spaces. We then had group discussions about themes that emerged to help decide what to include in the comic works. At the end of 2018, we all came together in Nairobi, Kenya, for a week to collaborate on this comic book, and a set of podcasts on similar topics. We worked through various ways of telling stories, and developed significant themes, including family, religion and spirituality, social and online queer spaces, sex, and romantic relationships. Each young person created a script and laid out the scenes for a comic that told a short story from their lives. They then worked one-on-one with an artist to finesse those ideas into a workable comic, and the artists thereafter developed each story through multiple rounds of feedback from the story's creator and the rest of the group.

Williamsburg Shorts Lucio Zago, 2017-06-23 For 23 years, Lucio Zago has lived on the busy intersection of Grand and Lorimer Street in Williamsburg, at a nexus between Caribbean, Italian, and Hasidic Jewish communities. Lucio has seen firsthand how Williamsburg was transformed from a working-class neighborhood to one of the trendiest. This comic book is a glimpse of events and characters that lived through the cultural and economic clashes, as witnessed by Lucio, during this dramatic period of gentrification.

Chilling Tales of Horror , 2012-08-01 Presents adaptations, in graphic novel format, of seven classic horror stories. Includes a brief biography of each author.

Loose Shorts Ganzeer, 2019-04-15 LOOSE SHORTS is a collection of short comix (with commentary) by Ganzeer. Ranging in subject matter that includes biotech, cultural borders, environmentalism, and rebellion, LOOSE SHORTS is a window into the artist's process and his evolution as an experimenter over the years. About Ganzeer: Described as a chameleon by Carlo McCormick in the New York Times, Ganzeer operates seamlessly between art, design, and storytelling, creating what he has coined: Concept Pop, a brand of cultural insurgency that utilizes the aesthetics birthed by Pop Art in tackling the subject matter typically ascribed to Conceptual Art. His medium of choice as described by Kaelen Wilson-Goldie in Artforum is a little bit of everything: stencils, murals, paintings, pamphlets, comics, installations, graphic design, and more.

A Book Of... Manuel Briceno, Hanako Duffie, Nara

Duffie, Sarah Ginocchio, Anna Lambert, Julia Lambert, Justus Lee, Charles Duffie, Miya Matsumune, Lola Piñon, Torin Quinn, Shannon Robertson, Emma Whyte, 2016-10-27 These wonderful stories grew out of a graphic novel class in the fall of 2016. At the time, the youngest artist was 12 and the oldest 18. Some had virtually no experience drawing, others wanted to make a career in the arts, but all were supportive of one another through the entire process--from brainstorming ideas to designing characters, from storyboarding to drawing. This is their first graphic short story any of them have told. It took a lot of courage, and a lot of work. They choose the open-ended title, A Book Of... because there are so many different kinds of stories in these pages, while from around the table refers to the small classroom where they worked, together, sitting around one folding table. We hope you enjoy these stories, and that you'll be inspired to create stories of your own!

Too Short for the Court Amy J. Lemke, 2012 When Morgan feels like she is too short to play basketball, her friend helps her practice.

Cartage Genevieve Bergeson, 2015-12-31 In this graphic short story, a flustered high school student and a former soldier have a close encounter with a shopping cart.

Comics Confidential Leonard S. Marcus, 2016-09-27 Thirteen prominent cartoonists discuss their creative processes and the experiences and influences that led to their success in one of today's most vibrant art forms. Each interview is followed by an original graphic short on the common theme of the city.

The Best British Short Stories of 1926 Edward Joseph O'Brien, 1926

Short & Skinny Mark Tatulli, 2018-10-16 New from syndicated comic strip artist Mark Tatulli comes a full-color middle grade graphic memoir that centers on Mark's own experience in the summer after seventh grade. As a middle schooler, Mark finds himself on the smaller side of the physical spectrum--being short AND skinny has really wreaked havoc on his confidence. So to end his bullying woes and get the girl--or at least the confidence to talk to the girl--he starts to explore bulking up by way of the miracle cures in the backs of his comics. But his obsession with beefing up is soon derailed by a new obsession: Star Wars, the hottest thing to hit the summer of 1977. As he explores his creative outlets as well as his cures to body image woes, Mark sets out to make his own stamp on the film that he loves. Mark Tatulli's graphic memoir debut is a humorous and heartfelt take on body-image, finding a creative outlet, and spending a summer in the 70's.

It's Dark in London Oscar Zarate, 2012 It's Dark in London features the work of Alan Moore, Neil Gaiman, David McKean, Ilya, Carol Swain, Dix, Melinda Gebbie, in tandem with the stories of London writers like Iain Sinclair, Graeme Gordon, Christopher Petit and Stella Duffy. This fusion produces a portrait of London that captures the city's fundamental essence as an exquisite mixture of lofty towers and gutter sleaze, of suburban gentility and urban depravity, of private vices and public philanthropy.

Pictures that Tick Dave McKean, 2009 Pictures That Tick collects Dave McKean's groundbreaking short comics stories from the 1990s and early 2000s. A true iconoclast, McKean mixes illustration, painting, photography, sculpture, and digital art for a comics experience unlike any other. Some pieces are poignant, some are silly, but all are beautiful and thought provoking. Each is completely unique, and gathered together they represent a tour-de-force achievement. Pictures

That Tick stretches the boundaries of comics art, and the short-story format allows him to create an even broader artistic vision.
