Where Histories Reside Priya Jaikumar, 2019-10-31 In Where Histories Reside Priya Jaikumar examines eight decades of films shot on location in India to show how attending to filmed space reveals alternative timelines and histories of cinema. In this bold “spatial” film historiography, Jaikumar outlines factors that shape India's filmed space, from state bureaucracies and commercial infrastructures to aesthetic styles and neoliberal policies. Whether discussing how educational shorts from Britain and India transform natural landscapes into instructional lessons or how Jean Renoir’s The River (1951) presents a universal human condition through the particularities of place, Jaikumar demonstrates that the history of filming a location has always been a history of competing assumptions, experiences, practices, and representational regimes. In so doing, she reveals that addressing the persistent question of “what is cinema?” must account for an aesthetics and politics of space.

By The Sabarmati Esther David, 2000-10-14 Twenty-two extraordinary stories from the lives of women we have always known What happens when women decide to shed their inhibitions and speak out about their deepest feelings? What stories lie behind their closed doors in the slums and pols of Ahmedabad? This sparkling collection tells us about the dreams and aspirations, the victories and defeats of women we have met every day---on the streets, at home, in our neighbourhoods. In simple unadorned prose Esther David recounts the stories of Maya Desai, tormented by the knowledge of her beauty and driven to suicide by a world which refuses to recognize her true self; of Vesti, who meets an unlikely saviour after being branded as a witch; of Amina, who never steps beyond the threshold of her house, but when her family begins to fall apart, proves to be a tower of strength; and of Vidya, the wife of an itinerant performer, who comes across a strange apparition in the course of a somnolent afternoon. There are young women and old, struggling against disappointment, failed love and the death of near ones. At times funny, at times disturbing, these stories are a testament to their heroic and moving endeavour to rise above their limitations.

Gender and Education in India Nandini Manjrekar, 2021-06-16 Examining the complex linkages between gender and education in the Indian context forms part of a wider matrix of inquiry related to understanding gender and its intersections with class, caste, religion and region. The sixteen essays in this Reader by eminent scholars offer critical feminist perspectives covering many issues related to these linkages, examining ideologies, structural contexts, knowledge, pedagogy and experiences through a socio-historical lens. They point to the range of sources and methods that can be used to uncover the linkages between gender and education such as quantitative data, literature, autobiographies, oral histories and ethnography. This book is co-published with Aakar Books, New Delhi. Taylor & Francis does not sell or distribute the print versions of this book in India, Pakistan, Nepal, Bhutan, Bangladesh and Sri Lanka.

Singapore Ethnic Mosaic, The: Many Cultures, One People Mathew Mathews, 2017-10-31 Far from being a melting pot, multi-racial Singapore prides itself on the richness of its ethnic communities and cultures. This volume provides an updated account of the heterogeneity within each of the main communities — the Chinese, Malay, Indian, Eurasian and Others. It also documents the ethnic cultures of these communities by discussing their histories, celebrations, cultural symbols, life cycle rituals, cultural icons and attempts to preserve culture. While chapters are written by scholars drawing insight from a variety of sources ranging from academic publications to discussions with community experts, it is written in an accessible way. This volume seeks to increase intercultural understanding through presenting ample insights into the cultural beliefs and practices of the different ethnic communities. While this book is about diversity, a closer examination of the peoples and cultures of Singapore demonstrates the many similarities communities share in this Singaporean space. Contents: Foreword (Janil Puthucherry) Acknowledgements Introductory: Ethnic Diversity, Identity and Everyday Multiculturalism in Singapore (Mathew Mathews) Chinese: The Chinese in Singapore (Tong Chee Kiong) Chinese Community and Culture in Singapore (Soon Su-Chuin, Elvin Xing Yifu and Tong Chee Kiong) Malay: The Malays in Singapore (Suriani Suratman) Malay Community and Culture in Singapore (Suriani Suratman and Siti Hajar Esa) Indian: The Indians in Singapore (Vineeta Sinha) Tamil Community and Culture in Singapore (A Mani, Pravin Prakash and Shanthini Selvarajan) Malayalee Community and Culture in Singapore (Anitha Devi Pillai) Punjabi Sikh Community and Culture in Singapore (Amrit Kaur and Bhajan Singh) Gujarati Community and Culture in Singapore (Rizwana Abdul Azeez) Minority Indian communities in Singapore (Nilanjan Raghunath) Eurasians and Others: The Eurasians and Others in Singapore (Mathew Mathews) Eurasian Community and Culture in Singapore (Alexius Pereira) Filipino Community and Culture in Singapore (Lou Antolihao and Clement Mesenas) Myanmar Community and Culture in Singapore (Moe Thuzar and Christine Lim Li Ping) Readership: Student and researchers of Singapore society and general readers interested in Singapore and its ethnic culture. Educational Regimes in Contemporary India Radhika Chopra, Patricia Jeffery, 2005-05-27 The commonsense understanding of 'education' rests on the assumption that it has a straightforward positive value. In practice education is profoundly ambiguous in its effects. By focusing on 'educational regimes' --and thereby locating values in a broad political terrain encompassing global, national and local contexts--this collection of original essays addresses numerous crucial issues. These include: whether educational regimes relate to other facets of contemporary India society; the extent to which they facilitate the values and ideals enshrined in the Constitution and in policy goals; and the implications of the differential impact of educational regimes on different social groups in India.

Tikli and Laxmi Bomb Aditya Kripalani, 2015-10-20 Two sex workers, Putul (Tikli), 22 and Laxmi, 40, decide to form a co-operative of their own and create a system of sex workers which is run by and for the women themselves. An anti-patriarchy story that takes on patriarchy at its very root. A Thelma and Louise-like vibe enters the narrative from the moment Tikli's first ill-advised outburst lands the pair into a spot of bother. Character development is the author's strong suite and it is obvious that he has carried Tikli and Laxmi inside his head for years. Laxmi, in particular, leaps off the pages, especially at the junctions like the first time she threatens a man with violence and all-important where the co-operative (or our system, as Tikli and Laxmi call it) has its first physical confrontation with Mhatre's goons... .. Tikli and Laxmi Bomb is neither with fulfillment, feel-good literature nor a violence-fuelled revenge story, although it flits briefly with the notion of being both. Thankfully, it sticks to what it is at heart: a gripping, no-hold-barred realist novel. ...it is rare to see genre fiction of this calibre coming out of India. ... Tikli and Laxmi Bomb, then, completes a formidable, intensively cinematic troika for Kripalani. Read to experience the agony and ecstasy of Mumbai. - The Sunday Guardian

Setting Stuff on Fire Jahnvi Kocha, 2014-11-20 Dear Fellow Travellers, In this journey of life, one of the most interesting expeditions is no doubt, the teen age. This is all about being individual, growing confidence in one self, establishing one's imprint and evolving from the cocoon to the butterfly. It is said that the shearing of the cocoon is a painful task. Every single tug, pull, arm flexing and kick against the constrictions of its shell alone sets the butterfly free. Rainbows of colour seep into its wings. Its limbs strengthen to take flight. Freedom. To be. Setting Stuff On Fire is reminiscent of just that. The shearing off. The coming of age. The spread of the hues in the wings. The conviction that now, I can Fly. Jahnvi, as I skimmed the pages of your dear doodlings, I realised the strength that you have derived from your home and the anchoring of your values at school. I see the gratefulness with which you approach life and the reticence with which you have accommodated loss. May your writings always be like the pristine waters of a clear lake, and tell the world with boldness tempered by love, just how much you have to still share with it and how much you care. Fellow travellers, may I entreat with you to lay your burdens down for brief moments, and share a goblet of reading with me. It will see Jahnvi, the young seeker, go far. Sudeshna Chatterjee, Principal, Jamnabai Narsee School, Mumbai.
