Middlemarch George Elliott,2009-03-09 An extraordinary masterpiece written from personal experience, Middlemarch is a deep psychological observation of human nature that revolves around the issues of love, jealousy, and obligation. Eliot's feminist views are apparent through the novel: she stresses the fact that women should control their own lives.

Pat of Silver Bush L. M. Montgomery,2014-03-04 There's no place like home Do fairies really come for the dish of milk we leave them? Is Mrs. McClenahan really a witch? How is it possible to find a new baby in a bed of parsley? These are all questions Pat Gardiner wants to know. And it seems her Irish housekeeper, the incomparable Judy Plum, always has an answer... For Pat, there is no place more magical on earth than her home of Silver Bush, with its majestic birch trees and enchanting gardens. If it were up to her, nothing there would ever change. But of course if nothing changed, she'd never get a new baby sister, see her Aunt Hazel's wedding, or meet the only boy who truly understands her. Yes, there is change coming for Pat—some of it joyous and some of it heartbreaking. But no matter what, her favorite house in the world will always be waiting for her... What Readers are Saying: I love this book! It's laugh-out-loud funny and a very charming story. The Pat books are right up there with the Anne series at the top of Montgomery's list of works. Pat is a lovely character, and her affection for home and family was delightful. I thoroughly enjoyed it.

The Expedition of the Donner Party and Its Tragic Fate Eliza Poor Donner Houghton,1911 Eliza Houghton (b. 1843) was the youngest child of George Donner, one of two Springfield, Illinois, brothers who organized the ill-fated California-bound emigrant party that bore their name. Eliza and her older sisters were rescued by relief parties that made their way to the stranded travellers at Donner Lake, but their parents perished, and the girls were left to make their way alone in the West. The expedition of the Donner party and its tragic fate (1911) begins with Mrs. Houghton's account of her childhood and the family's tragic overland journey, and rescue. She continues with her life as an orphan, first at Fort Sutter, and then with a family in Sonoma and with her older half-sister in Sacramento. She describes the impact of the gold rush and new immigration on the area, farm work and domestic work, and her own education in public schools and St. Catherine's Convent in Benicia. She writes at length of the emotional scars caused by contemporary rumors of cannibalism among the Donner Party and offers full accounts of Donner family history as well as the background of her husband, Samuel Houghton. An appendix contains several documentary sources for the history of the Donner Party.

E3PO Talks Love Moutushi Ghoshdeysarkar, 2021-05-05 This is a book of love stories, smooth or through murky waters, all in the family, spanning generations. In the year 2090, a young Cyborg E3PO - Enhanced Emotion Efficient Protocol Officer, I say young because it had been just commissioned for service, has started living with our protagonist and is trying to make sense of the plethora of emotions that a human experiences. It starts the narrative with a flash back to 2020 where a pandemic is wrecking havoc, life seems to have been stripped of basic commodities and comfort and yet love is about to brew in the life of our protagonist's grandfather - then a young chap of just 23. E3PO introduces himself before closing the first chapter. E3PO named as Crogy then goes on swinging back and forth with each chapter dedicated to the two timelines it is dealing with. The odd chapters deal with 'grandpa-Mohit's story and the even chapter Neel's - our protagonist. The essence of the book lies in understanding the nuances of love, from a 'non-human' perspective. Crogy is an artificially intelligent robot subjected to machine learning which is the de-facto and most efficient way of gathering intel. The interesting part being it is trying to learn emotions - the most intriguing, paradoxical and definitely debatable concept. Do we want our robots to learn to emote? Crogy takes the reader through a few futuristic inventions as 2090 is expected to be a very different world in terms of housing, travelling, communication, education and public services. Emotions though, largely remain unchanged. The readers may find themselves overwhelmed by the number of characters and thus the appendix has charts with names and dates and relations for reference, after all the readers are expected to be human and not Cyborg. The characters are varied yet regular people who fill our lives as friends, family and neighbours. Crogy introduces them at different stages of the narrative as and when there is a need to, as each has some influence - positive, negative or even neutral on either Mohit or Neel. The story not only spans two time-lines it also spans continents. It spans across subsequent years in Mohit's and Neel's life before culminating at a point which Crogy designates as a new 'beginning'. This is a book full of hopes. It is bespoke to create positive vibes and a happy overtone to momentarily subdue the reigning uncertainty and panic. The aim is to create an imaginary world - a getaway.

Buyology Martin Lindstrom, 2010-02-02 NEW YORK TIMES BESTSELLER • “A fascinating look at how consumers perceive logos, ads, commercials, brands, and products.”—Time How much do we know about why we buy? What truly influences our decisions in today's message-cluttered world? In Buyology, Martin Lindstrom presents the astonishing findings from his groundbreaking three-year, seven-million-dollar neuromarketing study—a cutting-edge experiment that peered inside the brains of 2,000 volunteers from all around the world as they encountered various ads, logos, commercials, brands, and products. His startling results shatter much of what we have long believed about what captures our interest—and drives us to buy. Among the questions he explores:

- Does sex actually sell?
- Does subliminal advertising still surround us?
- Can “cool” brands trigger our mating instincts? • Can our other senses—smell, touch, and sound—be aroused when we see a product? Buyology is a fascinating and shocking journey into the mind of today's consumer that will captivate anyone who's been seduced—or turned off—by marketers' relentless attempts to win our loyalty, our money, and our minds.

Water+Ink Coloring Book Winter 2020 Kim Winberry,2019-07-22 I begin my paintings with a sketch and application of colorful/bright pigment and water to the paper. I disrupt the blends with salt or water, watching as one color blossoms in water, as another color starts to travel across the paper. I utilize India Ink to demarcate changes, also adding add swirls other artifacts, in the aim to achieve whimsy. My coloring books are my paintings! I run the paintings through filters and drop the color from them, leaving the lines so that you can add your own color. But wait, there's more... I've added an Augmented Reality component to this. Wonder what colors I used for that piece in the corner there? Take out your phone, download the Zappar app from your app store and zap the code. What happens? At the very least an image of the original painting will pop up and you can see what it looks like, side by side with the coloring page. Beyond that, you'll meet Mist, my liaison to the AR world. She will be a recurring character in all my AR work. Stay tuned and enjoy.
