La peau (2e ed.) MÉLISSOPOULOS Alexandre, LEVACHER Christine, 2012-08-01 La peau - Structure et physiologie, ouvrage de référence destiné aux professionnels de la dermo-cosmétique et de l'esthétique, s'enrichit d'une nouvelle édition revue et augmentée afin de proposer, en plus de la synthèse des éléments fondamentaux de la biologie cutanée et de ses pathologies, les mises à jour intervenues ces dernières années dans le domaine en constante évolution que constitue la recherche en dermatologie. L'ouvrage met en avant, dans un premier temps, la structure et les composants de la peau au niveau cellulaire et moléculaire (épiderme, derme, hypoderme, vascularisation et innervation cutanée, annexes cutanées). Puis, les propriétés de la peau, en liaison avec ses différentes fonctions, sont abordées : thermorégulation, information sensorielle et protection contre les agressions extérieures. Enfin, une large part est faite aux effets du soleil sur la peau et au vieillissement cutané. Dotée de références, d'un index élargi et de nombreuses nouvelles illustrations, cette deuxième édition de La peau - Structure et physiologie est un livre unique sur le marché qui correspond, par son contenu et son approche didactique, aux programmes des diplômes d'esthétique et de cosmétique, en particulier celui du BTS. Il s'adresse également aux futurs professionnels de la santé tels que les étudiants en biologie, médecine, pharmacie et soins infirmiers, et à tout public désireux de se former et de s'informer sur les caractéristiques et les fonctions de la peau.

The Magic Skin Honoré de Balzac, 2024-03-02 La Peau de chagrin (The Skin of Shagreen), known in English as The Magic Skin and The Wild Ass's Skin, is an 1831 novel by French novelist and playwright Honoré de Balzac (1799-1850). Set in early 19th-century Paris, it tells the story of a young man who finds a magic piece of shagreen (untanned skin from a wild ass) that fulfills his every desire. For each wish granted, however, the skin shrinks and consumes a portion of his physical energy. La Peau de chagrin belongs to the Études philosophiques group of Balzac's sequence of novels, La Comédie humaine. Before the book was completed, Balzac created excitement about it by publishing a series of articles and story fragments in several Parisian journals. Although he was five months late in delivering the manuscript, he succeeded in generating sufficient interest that the novel sold out instantly upon its publication. A second edition, which included a series of twelve other philosophical tales, was released one month later. Although the novel uses fantastic elements, its main focus is a realistic portrayal of the excesses of bourgeois materialism. Balzac's renowned attention to detail is used to describe a gambling house, an antique shop, a royal banquet, and other locales. He also includes details from his own life as a struggling writer, placing the main character in a home similar to the one he occupied at the start of his literary career. The central theme of La Peau de chagrin is the conflict between desire and longevity. The magic skin represents the owner's life-force, which is depleted through every expression of will, especially when it is employed for the acquisition of power. Ignoring a caution from the shopkeeper who offers him the skin, the protagonist greedily surrounds himself with wealth, only to find himself miserable and decrepit at the story's end. La Peau de chagrin firmly established Balzac as a writer of significance in France. His social circle widened significantly, and he was sought eagerly by publishers for future projects. The book served as the catalyst for a series of letters he exchanged with a Polish baroness named Ewelina Hańska, who later became his wife. It also inspired Giselher Klebe's opera Die tödlichen Wünsche. (wikipedia.org)
