Becoming Intercultural Yau Tsai,2014-04-11 As people move into the new era of the twenty-first century, they will have more and more opportunities to communicate and interact with others using foreign languages. While this will naturally generate wide-ranging intercultural experience, people may not be alert to it in everyday life, and teachers may not know how to address the issues that arise. This book starts by exploring what it means to be intercultural from different theoretical standpoints, before contrasting ways in which people do (or do not) become intercultural in both tutored and untutored ways, inside and outside the classroom. The main purpose of this book is to introduce the concept of interculturality, to examine how it can emerge in an unplanned way and to consider ways in which it can be more systematically addressed through education, particularly through foreign language education.

How Interculturally Competent am I? An Introductory Thesis Writing Course for International Students Yau Tsai,2014-07-08 This textbook aims to help students to develop thesis-writing skills through experiential learning by conducting a research project based on a diary study, and reporting on it in a mini-thesis. It was developed for the benefit of international students who, in their penultimate year of undergraduate study, are planning to write a graduation thesis in English related to intercultural communication in their final year with little or no prior knowledge of the subject, or of thesis-writing itself. The overarching structure of the book provides a clear overview of the main parts of a thesis, and how they fit together. It presents wide-ranging activities designed to help students to critically analyse and evaluate the academic literature with a specific research question in mind, and provides a basic introduction to qualitative research methodology placing a special focus upon the use of diary studies in research. Thirteen units guide students through the process of analyzing and evaluating competing models of intercultural competence before using them as frameworks to structure self-reflection in a small-scale study. Along the way, students write a series of structured diary entries in response to different kinds of intercultural experience that ultimately allows them to draw conclusions about not only their current level of intercultural competence, within the terms they choose to define it, but also about the standards they tend to apply in practice. To promote extensive reading, the textbook may be used in conjunction with its optional accompanying handbook from which many reading passages are drawn: Tsai, Y. and Houghton, S. Becoming Intercultural: Inside and Outside the Classroom (Newcastle-upon Tyne: Cambridge Scholars Publishing, 2010).

Storytelling Across Japanese Conversational Genre Polly Ellen Szatrowski,2010 This book investigates how Japanese participants accommodate to and make use of genre-specific characteristics to make stories tellable, create interpersonal involvement, negotiate responsibility, and show their personal selves. The analyses of storytelling in casual conversation, animation narratives, television talk shows, survey interviews, and large university lectures focus on participation/participatory framework, topical coherence, involvement, knowledge, the story recipient's role, prosody and nonverbal behavior. Story tellers across genre are shown to use linguistic/paralinguistic (prosody, reported speech, style shifting, demonstratives, repetition, ellipsis, co-construction, connectives, final particles, onomatopoeia) and nonverbal (gesture, gaze, head nodding) devices to involve their recipients, and recipients also use a multiple of devices (laughter, repetition, responsive forms, posture changes) to shape the development of the stories. Nonverbal behavior proves to be a rich resource and constitutive feature of storytelling across genre. The analyses also shed new light on grammar across genre (ellipsis, demonstratives, clause combining), and illustrate a variety of methods for studying genre.

The Ancient Omen Lena Wood,2005 The discovery of the belt of truth draws Elijah and his friends back into the forbidden haunts of Telanoo, where they discover an old mystery which leads Elijah into trouble--and new understandings of his relationship with God.

Conversational Storytelling Among Japanese Women Mariko Karatsu,2012 This book presents research findings on the overall process of storytelling as a social event in Japanese everyday conversations focusing on the relationship between a story and surrounding talks, the social and cultural aspects of the participants, and the tellability of conversational stories. Focusing on the participants' verbal and nonverbal behavior and their use of linguistic devices, the chapters describe how the participants display their orientation to the a) embeddedness of the story in the conversation, b) their views of past events, c) their knowledge about the story content and elements, and d) their social circumstances, and how these four elements are relevant for a story becoming worth telling and sharing. The book furthers the sociolinguistic analysis of conversational storytelling by describing how the participants' concerns about social circumstances as members of a particular community, specifically their role relationships and interpersonal relationships with others, influence the shape of their storytelling.

En el jardín de lirios. El amor entre mujeres en la cultura pop asiática Alexandra Arana Blas,María Alexandra Arana Blas,2022-01-15 Desde la apertura de Japón en 1858, y con la llegada de un pensamiento occidental que influyó en el sistema médico, familiar, político y educativo japonés, vemos una mayor participación de la mujer en la esfera pública, en especial en espacios como la escuela, el arte y la literatura. De estos, la educación es una de las más importantes, pues permitió a las jóvenes aplazar el matrimonio y, a través de los dormitorios femeninos y las revistas para chicas (shōjo zasshi), encontraron un lugar donde expresarse con libertad y descubrir su sexualidad. Esto, sumado a los procesos de industrialización y dinamización de la economía, permitió a inicios del siglo XX el surgimiento de una cultura de chicas (shōjo bunka), donde nace la literatura de Clase S, un género melodramático que presenta los matices que tienen las amistades femeninas: desde la nostalgia y la admiración, hasta el amor platónico y la atracción sexual. De dicha tradición nace el manga shōjo, el cual se escinde en el siglo XXI y crea el manga yuri. Muchos fueron los países que se vieron influenciados por esta presentación del lesbianismo y la atracción entre mujeres, entre ellos China, Corea e incluso el Perú. Esto, gracias a la exportación de anime, los procesos de globalización y el acceso al Internet. «En el jardín de lirios. El amor entre mujeres en la cultura pop asiática» recopila diversos trabajos de Alexandra Arana que abordan este tema en el anime, manga, videojuegos, manhwa, manhwa y manga peruano. Con ellos no solo nos presenta el contexto en el que nacieron dichas obras, sino también los múltiples usos y formas de representar el deseo entre mujeres a nivel narrativo.

Language and Food Polly E. Szatrowski,2014-01-10 This book investigates the intricate interplay between language and food in natural conversations among people eating and talking about food in English, Japanese, Wolof, Eegimaa, Danish, German, Arabic, Persian, and Turkish. It is a socio-cultural/ linguistic study of how adults/ children organize their language and bodies to (1) accomplish rituals and performances of commensality (eating together) and food-related actions, (2) taste, describe, identify and assess food, and influence others' preferences, (3) create and reinforce individual and group identities through past experiences and stories about food, and (4) socialize one another to food practices, affect, taste, gender and health norms. Using approaches from linguistics, conversation analysis, ethnography, discursive psychology, and linguistic anthropology, this book elucidates the dynamic verbal and nonverbal co-construction of food practices, assessments, categories, and identities in conversations over and about food, and contributes to research on contextualized social, cultural, and cognitive activity, language and food, and cross-cultural understanding.

Yellow: Stories Don Lee,2012-01-16 Elegant and engrossing...[an] unusually complete portrait of contemporary Asian America.—Los Angeles Times...A gem....Lee has captured this truth beautifully, wisely, and with winning economy.—Cleveland Plain Dealer As the Los Angeles Times noted in its profile of the author, few writers have mined the [genre of ethnic literature] as shrewdly or transcended its limits quite so stunningly as Don Lee. Harking back to the timeless concerns of Chekhov: fate, chance, the mystery of the human heart (Stuart Dybek), these interconnected stories are utterly contemporary,...but grounded in the depth of beautiful prose and intriguing storylines (Asian Week). They paint a novelistic portrait of the fictional town of Rosarita Bay, California, and a diverse cast of complex and moving characters. Nothing short of wonderful...surprising and wild with life (Robert Boswell), Yellow proves that wondering about whether you're a real American is as American as a big bowl of kimchi (New York Times Book Review).
