Motion-Picture Work David S. Hulfish, 2015-08-04
Twenty years ago the motion picture was a child's toy. Today it is the basis of a business giving profitable employment to thousands of workers, offering amusement and education to millions of people, and involving an investment of capital that places it among the world's great industries. The motion-picture maker sets up his whirring camera in the wilds and the crowded city alike. He records the downfall of kings and the inauguration of presidents, the horrors of great disasters and the deeds of popular heroes; he spreads before us in moving panorama all that is interesting in nature and in man's work, in drama and in real life. Every large city has its motion-picture factory, and every village its motion-picture theater. Into communities too small to support a theater regularly comes the traveling exhibitor with his portable outfit, and shows in town hall, church, or country school house. For so important an industry a book of reference and instruction is more than merely justified; it is demanded. The motion-picture field is broadening day by day; the details of the business are becoming more multitudinous with each advance. The worker in one branch of activity must have me knowledge of all the branches to be able to get the best results in his own work. This treatise on Motion-Picture Work is the first compilation to cover adequately the entire field. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books. Through the Eye of My Lens Joseph B. Hendrix, 2012-09-01 The travel photography I have chosen to share with you in my book has very special significance to me. Each image was taken with the greatest skill and determination that I have to offer. As you will see, there are very few images with people in them. It's not because I don't like people (I love people); it just wasn't the way I wanted to capture the views. Funny, my wife and daughter accompany me on my photo shoots and always ask Dad; how long are you going to stand there and wait for those people to move out of your picture? Actually, I hate to put them through that but, hopefully you will see the results of my labor as you maneuver through my website (josephhendrixphotography.com).
