Graeme Heward

Riding with the Alien Graeme Heward, 2015-03-29 Graeme Heward describes a four-year period in his life in which he is confronted by an extremely rare form of cancer. He details each phase of his roller-coaster existence in fluent, honest and direct language, giving an insight into what happened to him physically, medically and emotionally. Drawing on his pre-existing physical fitness and past experiences, Graeme and his numerous medical advisors engage with the 'Alien'. He repeatedly gets up off the 'canvas' to carry on fighting, supported by his two 'ring men' sons, partner Lesley, family, and friends, who never give up. Despite facial disfigurement, the loss of his right eye, skin and muscle grafting from other regions of his body; battered and bruised, he still manages a mammoth fund raising event. It's an enthralling story that draws you in with emotion and humour. Offering hope and inspiration to sufferers of any kind, it affords an opportunity for family and friends to gain a greater understanding of 'the patient's perspective'. For the rest of us, who are sometimes guilty of taking life and good health for granted, it's a fascinating 'ride'.
