Albatros D.III James F. Miller, 2014-03-20 In 1916 German aerial domination, once held sway by rotary-engined Fokker and Pfalz E-type wing-warping monoplanes, had been lost to the more nimble French Nieuports and British DH 2s which not only out-flew the German fighters but were present in greater numbers. Born-from-experience calls from German fighter pilots requested that, rather than compete with the maneuverability of these adversaries, new single-engine machines should be equipped with higher horsepower engines and armed with two rather than the then-standard single machine gun. The Robert Thelen-led Albatros design bureau set to work on what became the Albatros D.I and D.II and by April 1916, they had developed a sleek yet rugged machine that featured the usual Albatros semi-monocoque wooden construction and employed a 160hp Mercedes D.III engine with power enough to equip the aeroplane with two forward-firing machine guns. In all, 500 D.IIIs and 840 D.III(OAW)s were produced and saw heavy service throughout 1917.

Kowalski, 2010-11-01 Free decals and masking foil for modelers This important new addition to the Legends of Aviation series focuses on the Albatros, a German fighter used during World War I, which formed the bulk of German and Austrian fighter squadrons for the last two years of the war. With detailed information on the aircraft, archival photography, scale drawings, and color profiles, this book is a valuable tribute to a classic and important aircraft for any aviation enthusiast, with useful extras for modelers, such as masking foil and free decals. About the Series Legends of Aviation is a collection of books detailing the oldest aircraft of the 20th Century, their units and the pilots who flew and fought in them. Each volume contains archive photographs, scale drawings and color profile artwork. Free extras for modelers include free decals and masking foil.

Albatros D. III/D. V Tomasz J. Kowalski, Wojciech Fajga, Damiam Majsak, Vítor Costa, 2018-06 The Albatros D.III, often called De-drei, is a neat single-seat biplane fighter armed with two guns firing through the propeller. It goes up like a balloon and at full throttle it reaches 170 kilometers per hour.

Albatros Aces of World War 1 Norman Franks, 2000-03-25 The Albatros family of fighters were amongst the most effective aircraft employed by the Idflieg (Imperial German Air Service) for much of World War 1, with the D.III and D.Va being flown by most of the 363 pilots who qualified as aces at some point in their often brief careers. The Albatros was the scourge of the RFC on the Western Front in 1916-17, with pilots of the calibre of von Richthofen, Boelke and Schleich cutting swathes through their opponents. Well over 4000 Albatros scouts were built between 1916 and 1918, and they were also extensively used by the Austro-Hungarians against Russian, Italian and British aircraft until war's end.

DH 2 vs Albatros D I/D II James F. Miller, 2012-05-20 Flown by Victoria Cross recipient Lanoe Hawker and the members of No 24 Sqn, the ungainly yet nimble DH 2 helped the Allies attain air superiority over the Somme in early 1916 and hold it through the summer. With its rotary engine 'pusher' configuration affording excellent visibility and eliminating the need for a synchronized machine gun, the DH 2 was more than a match for anything the Germans could put in the air. That is, until the arrival of the Albatros D II, a sleek inline-engined machine built for speed and with twin-gun firepower. Thus, the later part of 1916 saw an epic struggle in the skies above the Somme pitting the manoeuvrable yet under-gunned DH 2s against the less nimble yet better armed and faster

Albatros D IIs. In the end the Germans would regain air superiority, three squadron commanders - two of whom were considered pinnacles of their respective air forces - would lose their lives, and an up-and-coming pilot (Manfred von Richthofen) would triumph in a legendary dogfight and attain unimagined heights fighting with tactics learned from a fallen mentor.

Albatros D-II Rudolf Hofling, 2002-02 This legendary fighter was flown by many of Germany's premier fighter pilots of World War I - Boelke, Richthofen, Bohme, etc. This book presents a concise history of the versions, pilots and operations of this famous fighter and includes a section of follow-up types such as the D-III, D-V and others.

German War Birds from World War I to NATO Ally Kenneth Munson, 1986 Features color line drawings of over 150 combat aircraft accompanied by concise technical details of each plane.
